

Barilko Mystery Solved

TORONTO (CP) — The skeleton of hockey star Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson were found Wednesday in an 11-year-old plane wreckage north of Cochrane, Lands and Forests Minister J. W. Spooner of Ontario said Wednesday night.

PONTON PLANE

Mr. Spooner said members of his staff had identified the wreckage as the yellow Fairchild 24 pontoon plane which disappeared with the two men aboard on a flight from Rupert's House to Timmins Aug. 26, 1951.

Part of the plane's registration number—CFXT—was still visible.

OLD MYSTERY

The discovery in the Northern Ontario bushland ended one of Canada's longest-standing aviation mysteries.

A helicopter crew of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, who spotted the glint of metal in scrubby wilderness, led searchers to the wreck about 45 air miles north of here.

CONFIRM IDENTITY

Mr. Spooner said there could be no doubt the remains were those of the former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star and his fishing companion, a Timmins dentist.

Suspicious grew that the mystery was near an end when helicopter pilot Gary Fields first detected the gleaming wreckage last Thursday.

FOUND AGAIN

It was Fields who found the wreck again Wednesday.

He succeeded where all previous efforts failed. The original search, perhaps the most massive in Canadian history, had cost more than $250,000 and involved 1,345 hours of flying by 17 RCAF aircraft.

The incident prompted the lands and forests department to close 100,000 square miles of hinterland to non-resident fishermen and hunters.

Flag for D-Day

Victorians remembered, last night, when Sergeant Leonard Hamilton, left and Fred Barker lowered the flag at special D-Day sunset ceremony performed by Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on legislative buildings lawn. More than 2,000 persons witnessed colorful ceremony in which Col. the Hon. R. W. Mayhew placed a wreath on cenotaph on behalf of all ranks. — (Colonist photo.)

'Everything Private Enterprise'

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Government-owned corporations should be given back to private control, Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Wednesday.

Speaking at a Social Credit rally here, Mr. Bennett said a Social Credit Government would let the CBC, TCA and the CNR stand on their own financial feet.

The Social Credit premier also said that if his party formed the federal government, it would pay off the country's debt and operate on a balanced budget.

Europeans Favor British Solution To Market 'Key'

PARIS (Reuters) — The seven-nation Western European Union Wednesday adopted a British recommendation for solving Commonwealth problems in European Common Market negotiations.

The union links Britain and the six Common Market countries—France, Italy, West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The recommendation said: 1. "Exceptional provisions" should be worked out to cover a transitional period in favor of imported Commonwealth foodstuffs, especially from the temperate zones (Canada, Australia and New Zealand).

2. After this transitional period there should be product-by-product negotiations of tariff agreements "taking into account the world commodity agreements for foodstuffs which will be sought" by the market.

These points were part of an amendment proposed Tuesday.

Earlier, the assembly recorded its preference for an integrated "democratic union of the peoples of Europe" instead of the inter-government "union of states" favored by France.

Full Medicare 'On the Way'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Malcolm Taylor, principal of the University of Alberta, said Wednesday a complete public health program for Canadians is on the way and dentists will eventually be part of it.

Dr. Taylor told 1,000 delegates to the national convention of the Canadian Dental Association:

MYOPIC VIEWS

"I believe dentists and other professions will rise above the petty irritations, the unwarranted fears, the cries of alarmists and those with myopic views.

"I believe the health professions will see today a great and unprecedented opportunity to provide improved standards of health care."

MORE MONEY

Dr. Taylor said Canadians have come to the conclusion it was time to spend more money and to establish or expand organizational arrangements to make a higher quality of health services more readily available for everybody.

"Will the professions meet this challenge negatively, as if they were fighting a rear-guard action to preserve ancient privilege?" he asked.

Andy Andras, Canadian Labor Congress director of personnel relations, said some form of public health program is inevitable.

40 Killed Since Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — East German border guards have shot and killed at least 40 refugees trying to escape to the west since the Communist Berlin wall went up last August, all-German affairs minister Ernst Lemmer announced Wednesday.

Nation Must Like Flag

CHEOCTIME, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that "all parts" of Canada must approve the "symbols of our sovereignty"—a national flag and a Canadian anthem.

He said that unity cannot exist without a general acceptance of the symbols in all provinces.

MAJOR POINT

The issue of the flag and the anthem—a major election point in nationalistic Quebec—was raised at Roberval, Que., during the prime minister's day-long campaign tour of the Lake St. John area of northeastern Quebec.

Said Dr. Gaston Brassard, welcoming the prime minister to Roberval: "It would have been a better welcome with an official national anthem and with a real Canadian flag."

TROIS TREMBLAIS

After meeting three men, all with the name of Tremblay, at St. Bruno, the prime minister held up three fingers and said: "Ah, quatre Tremblays, Non, trois Tremblays."

At Alma, he ran into a bunch of Gagnes and said: "Beaucoup Gagnes." Everyone chuckled.

New Depot Rejects Bad Meat

In two days of operation, the new meat inspection depot in Victoria has discovered and rejected three beef livers, two lamb livers and one pig heart as unfit for human consumption.

Veterinary inspector Dr. D. W. Gaunt said last night the meat was rejected Tuesday and yesterday. The inspection service was initiated after the recent discovery of abscessed liver in a local butcher shop.

No meat was condemned Monday, the first day of the inspection service.

AT CITY SCALES

The inspection depot, at the city scales on Store Street, is open between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m., and Dr. Gaunt has started visiting local slaughterhouses for inspections on the spot.

Inspections at the depot mean the freshly-slaughtered meat must be trucked to the city scales.

SAANICH SURVEY

Meanwhile, a survey of Saanich butchers shows little change in business since inspection started in the three other local municipalities.

One meat market reported a slight increase in business while another said sales of liver had dropped considerably.

SAME AS USUAL

The rest said business was the same as usual.

Lake Hill Food Market reported the slight increase but said it probably didn't indicate anything significant.

Liver sales dropped at Wilson's Quality Meats.

GREAT INCREASE

"But other meat sales are still the same," said a spokesman, who reported a great increase in the number of customers asking if meat was inspected.

Sales were "holding up the same" at Ken's Low Cost. "Business is very good."

NO DIFFERENCE

Other markets noticed no difference.

All but 15 per cent of the meat sold in markets has already been inspected and carries the "Canada Approved" stamp.

A "B.C. Passed" stamp will go onto all carcasses inspected at the Victoria depot.

Queen Mother One of Crowd

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth flies to Montreal today to begin a 10-day visit to Canada.

She will be with about 100 other passengers on a scheduled flight of Trans-Canada Air Lines, the first time she has ever travelled on a commercial airliner with other passengers.

The first-class section of the DC-8 airliner will be reserved for the Queen Mother and 10 of her party of 16.

She will be greeted on her arrival at Dorval airport by Governor-General Georges Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Quebec officials.

Her principal engagements are concerned with the centenary celebrations in Montreal of The Black Watch, the Royal Highland Regiment of Canada of which she is colonel-in-chief.

She is due in Toronto June 16 to attend the Queen's Plate horse race.

It is the Queen Mother's third trip to Canada. The first, as Queen and accompanied by King George VI, was in 1939, the second, as Queen Mother, was in 1954.

Labor Captures Key British Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — The five candidate Bernard Connelley with 12,825. The Liberal stock with voters took a fresh plunge in a byelection Wednesday when the opposition Labor party captured the parliamentary seat of Middlesbrough West, formerly held by a Conservative.

Labor won the election district with a margin of 2,770 votes in a field of five candidates.

Winning candidate Dr. Jeremy Bray led the field with 15,085 votes followed by Conservatives.

Junior Criminals Hit Even Police

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (AP)

A junior crime wave of adult proportions was reported by Woonsocket police to have been solved Wednesday with the arrests of three youths, 13 to 14 years old. They were alleged to have committed 72 thefts and acts of vandalism in which losses totaled thousands of dollars.

As the youths were being led from the police station, after questioning, to be taken to family court, a policeman noticed a bulge in one of the boy's pockets.

Out came a small transistor radio belonging to one of the sergeants who had questioned the boy.

Economic Summit

Tighten Belt Red Order

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Top Communist leaders from seven European countries began "economic summit" meeting here Wednesday.

Forecasters from Communist and Western sources said these topics would likely be on the agenda for the meeting of "Comecon," the Soviet bloc's council for economic aid:

1. A Communist counterblast to the Western European Common Market, including a re-statement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call last week for the formation of a worldwide "non-discriminatory" trade organization.

2. The drafting of a "tighten your belt" program for the Communist countries, dictated by a decision to try to keep ahead of the United States in the nuclear and rocket arms race.

3. Further consideration of the already-launched co-ordination of 20-year plans of Communist countries.

Big Oil Area Target Of Rival Bid

CALGARY (CP) — Plans for a $250,000,000 project to produce oil from the Athabasca sands were disclosed Wednesday by a group of companies known as Cities Service Athabasca Inc.

The announcement came as a surprise at a hearing being held by the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board into a bid by Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. of New York for the right to develop what is believed to be one of the largest oil reserves in the world.

The Cities Service group, which includes Imperial Oil Ltd., Richfield Oil Corporation and Royalite Oil Co. Ltd., was expected to be the only rival to Great Canadian's proposal. No date has been set for that hearing.

New Life in Commonwealth—Philip

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh says he believes his Second Commonwealth Study Conference which ended here Wednesday has given a great many people a new idea of the meaning of the British Commonwealth.

Prince Philip, president of the conference, told the 300 delegates at the closing session of the 25-day study: "If this conference has done nothing else, it has brought a new life and a new meaning to the Commonwealth idea to a great many people."

The duke addressed the delegates after three days of intensive study here of matters gathered in three weeks of travelling across Canada. Delegates viewed Canadian communities and industry in an effort to learn of the "human consequences of the changing industrial environment."

This was the theme of the conference which began in Montreal May 13, and Prince

Philip said he believes Canada gave the delegates a broad insight into this subject.

The conference had opportunity to study practically every industrial community problem which Canada had to offer.

"You have seen good and encouraging things as well as bad and depressing things," he said. "Perhaps the most important, you have seen that a high standard of living does not insulate communities from the harsh problems of industrialization, which are experienced in every part of the Commonwealth."

"... But your effect upon each other has been just as rewarding."

"It is quite obvious to me that all of you realize now, probably better than ever before, that you have all got something that you can learn from each other; that you can all help each other and that a great sense of comradeship can

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Elsa "Ma" Corry, friend to thousands of airmen and soldiers who stayed at Canadian YMCA hostels in Britain during the 1939-45 war, is touring Canada meeting "her boys" again.

Most of the 275 she has met so far have acquired wives, children and weight, and have lost hair.

But the warm-hearted Australian hostess—a woman with a phenomenal memory—recognized every one of them.

She is away by air again this morning to Edmonton, after a stop in Victoria, on another lap of the sentimental journey that has taken her from Nova Scotia to B.C.

She can be reached by mail in care of the YMCA, Edmonton.

Her pilgrimage to the country she had never seen—but got to know through the nostalgic talk of homewick men—was planned to last from April until July. However, it has been stretched until September and might be stretched longer.

Plenty of Words

In Victoria she has been staying with Alne J. "Ajax" Colonelval, 1176 Oscar, a one-time RCAF radar man. Miss Corry introduced him to his wife Joyce, a Royal Navy Wren—and attended their wedding.

For some guests at YMCA hostels, she was an adviser on personal problems and liaison woman between servicemen and their wives and girl friends. (She wrote 200 letters a month.)

For other servicemen, she was a friendly hand helping a reveller to his bunk after a night on the town in the black-out, or offering hangover remedies next day.

Her career as a singer and pianist in England was interrupted by the war. She doesn't regret the chance that made her a YMCA hostess. (She was senior hostess of all YMCA hostels in Britain at the war's end.)

She lost a career, but gained thousands of friends. On this journey, some of them travelled as far as 700 miles to see her.

Word of her coming, through letters, television and newspaper stories, brought together comrades who had

Your Good Health

Disposable Needles Excellent And Sterilized Regulars Safe

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner, I've heard it is possible to contaminate an individual with an injection needle even though it has been sterilized, the worst of tender being the hepatitis germ. I know the army is using air injection, but should a private citizen insist on a doctor using disposable needle heads, good for that time only?—J.B.

I disagree with the idea that a properly sterilized needle can transmit germs, because the very term, "sterilize," means removal of all living organisms, including germs.

The air-injection method is used by the armed services and by health departments, etc., because it is efficient for large numbers of inoculations. The equipment is too expensive for ordinary use.

Disposable needles are excellent and I've used a good many of them myself. Thrown away after one use, they save the labor of sterilizing. But a properly sterilized regular needle is entirely safe.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any treatment other than going to a specialist to retard developments of cataracts?—D.M.

No, there's no way to retard them, including going to a specialist. Cataracts grow at varying rates regardless of anything we know how to do. Some are extremely slow, some rapid. It is wise to have an eye specialist inspect cataracts periodically, but this is so he can gauge the rate of growth and choose the best time to remove them, if at all. (A few grow so slowly that they never seriously interfere with vision.)

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine says she has a "spastic heart." (Can you tell me what this is and what can be done for it?)—R.K.

This isn't in the books. You and I are equally in the dark. So let's leave it to her and her doctor.

Translated into proper terms," he said, "this is the essence and the motivating force of the Commonwealth today."

Prince Philip was to leave at 9 a.m. with some of the delegates aboard a chartered flight to Toronto and then New York for a dinner address before flying home to London.

Reporters were permitted to attend the closing assembly.

He said the meeting could not have been successful if they had not been carried out privately.

"It was difficult to convince the press of this," he smiled, adding that the press had been understanding and co-operative.

CITER TWO POINTS

Prince Philip said it is impossible to summarize the experience of the conference, but two points had emerged. Delegates had learned the importance of communication both in transport and exchange of ideas and opinions.

"The main lesson you seem to have learned about communities as well as industries is that expediency is a bad way of working for the future. Only careful study, careful planning and resolute execution, all the time and not just by fits and starts, can prevent the worst mistakes and the worst results of industrialization."

France Executes Two As Jouhaud Waits

PARIS (CP) — Two Algerian Secret Army terrorists, Claude Piegts and Albert Dovecar, were executed by a firing squad at an army fort on the outskirts of Paris early yesterday.

Following reports of rifle volleys followed by two pistol shots heard from the Trou d'Enfer (Hell Hole) Fort just outside Paris early this morning there had been speculation that one of the executed persons might have been former general Edmond Jouhaud, sentenced to death as No. 2 leader of the Algerian Secret Army.

STILL HERE

This was discounted by his lawyer, Yves Perrussel. Awakened by a reporter at his home, he said: "You see, I'm still here. It was not Jouhaud."

Lawyers of condemned persons are required by law to attend an execution.

Dovecar, a former Foreign Legion sergeant, and Piegts, a civilian, were under sentence of death for the murder of Algiers Police Commissioner Roger Gascary.

MAY SPARE JOUHAUD

President de Gaulle indicated Wednesday he may spare Jouhaud's life for the sake of reconciliation and France's own national interest.

A government spokesman reflected the president's attitude in reporting on a cabinet session which discussed Jouhaud's dramatic appeal for an end to the campaign of terror waged by the European Secret Army Organization against Algerian independence.

HIGHER INTERESTS

De Gaulle, the spokesman reported, said men and events should be judged from the viewpoint of the nation's higher interests.

But the spokesman avoided any direct connection between that remark and the death sentence now hanging over Jouhaud. Jouhaud's fate is in de Gaulle's hands alone.

Control Failure Feared

PARIS (AP)—Air France officials demonstrated Wednesday their belief that a failure of the elevation control system may have caused Sunday's tragic jetliner crash that took the lives of 130 persons.

NEW ORDERS

New instructions, it was learned at Orly field, have been issued to the line's Boeing 707 jet pilots on pre-flight testing of the movable horizontal tail surfaces which determine a craft's up and down direction. The instructions were issued Monday.

TAKEOFF TEST

Under the new instructions, pilots are to test the control surfaces early in the takeoff run when the craft reaches a ground speed of about 110 miles an hour.

If anything seems amiss on this test the pilots are to immediately cut their engines, brake the craft, and cancel the flight.

Terror to Resume Says Secret Army

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The European community should find its only guarantee in the Algerian Secret Army Organization announced in a clandestine broadcast Wednesday night that it is "resuming its freedom of action beginning tonight."

The announcer, who identified himself as the Secret Army high command spokesman, said negotiations between representatives of the Moslem and European communities had reached an impasse.

SABOTAGED

The announcer said "the talks started by the Secret Army letter appealing for an end to Secret Army killing in Algeria have been sabotaged by the Gaullist administration."

"We find ourselves today in an impasse because we cannot accept that the future of the

U.S. May Slash Tax Rates

Reduction of 25 Per Cent Forecast

By HAROLD MORRISON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Kennedy administration has come to the conclusion United States tax rates must be reduced. There is talk in official quarters of a proposed reduction of as much as 25 per cent. The only matter of controversy is whether the proposal should go to Congress immediately or be delayed until next year.

The president is concentrating closely on the U.S. domestic economy following the sudden stock market break a week ago when, as Treasury Secretary Dillon says, "all vestiges of reason were temporarily pushed aside and panic took control of the great New York Exchange, touching off repercussions in security markets throughout the world."

Though the U.S. economy is still continuing to expand, Kennedy's advisers make U.S. investors and consumers extremely cautious about their buying plans, thereby slowing down the rate of economic growth.

This is of more than incidental interest to Canadians who rely heavily on the U.S. market for their own economic welfare.

Some of Kennedy's advisers are suggesting that he propose tax cuts immediately, but the majority view appears to be on the side of Dillon who feels the rate changes should be held off until 1963.

Nevertheless, the U.S. course appears to be set. Congress will be asked either late this year or early next year to reduce tax rates which have been unchanged since 1954. The request also will be made to provide some compensating revenue sources by widening the existing tax base and closing tax loopholes. Those involved in the planning estimate that net savings to taxpayers may range between $2,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000 a year.

Lumber Strike Feared In Pacific Northwest

PORTLAND (AP) — A Pacific Northwest lumber strike became a distinct possibility Wednesday.

The Timber Operators Committee, representing 190 employers from Alaska to northern California, said it has reached an impasse in wage negotiations with both big lumber unions.

One of the unions, the International Woodworkers of America, disclosed its next step will be to call its policy committee into session the week of June 18 to decide when and where to use its strike authority.

Both the IWA and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union—which combined have some 60,000 members in the region—have authority to call a strike.

Both unions have asked 30-cent-an-hour wage increases. The employer group has insisted on no wage increase at all.

Big Job Faces Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Richard Nixon, a solid winner in California's primary election, yesterday tackled the problem of uniting the state's Republicans for his campaign to unseat Democratic Governor Edmund Brown in November.

First indications were that he had a major job ahead of him.

Joseph Shell, a conservative state assemblyman who polled about one out of three votes in losing to Nixon in Tuesday's Republican primary, refused to endorse the former vice-president.

In returns from 20,461 of the state's 31,212 precincts, Nixon rolled up 680,975, Shell 364,420.

'A-Bombers At Hand In Russia'

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain's Joseph Godber told the 17-nation disarmament conference Wednesday that Russia has more than 100 civilian airliners which could easily be converted into nuclear bombers.

Godber, chief British delegate to the conference, said the Soviet TU-104 airliner is a civilian version of the TU-16 bomber and the TU-114 airliner is a version of the TU-20 bomber.

Godber said: "Now, I am not for a moment suggesting the Soviet Union intends to use its civil airliners for such a purpose."

East German Shortage

Reds Hint at Rationing

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists Wednesday admitted serious shortages of milk, butter and meat and hinted of a return to rationing.

They indicated collective farmers were working only under pressure from party officials and accused many local officials of failing to crack down on the laggards.

TUMLING CONTROL

The official party newspaper Neues Deutschland called for "public control" of milk and meat production. It said the whole question would be raised at the coming Communist "National Congress" if many delegates were unable to show "a manifold increase in fulfilling the national plans for meat and milk."

Collective farmers and local officials in the province of Karl-Marx Stadt, for instance, were accused of causing a milk shortage that left the people in the city with only one quart of milk a day for the past five months.

Private information reaching West Berlin said the milk was not even available for children.

Quick-Change Artists

ONE OF THE OUTSTANDING weaknesses of the Liberal Party in the present campaign is its confusing habit of changing its policies at a moment's notice. The latest example of this relates to the future of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Early in May Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer bluntly stated his party's view that Canada should phase out of her anti-submarine role. Now, less than a month later, Mr. Lester Pearson, his leader, has completely refuted Mr. Hellyer's stand on the matter.

In a special telegram to Victoria the Liberal leader states that the navy will indeed be needed for combating submarines, as well as keeping open our lines of communication and maintaining the shield of North American defence.

He might easily have added that this is precisely the policy maintained by the Conservative government since 1957.

This, of course, is only one of many such incidents marking the ever-changeable views of the Liberal Party and its brain-busters. The devaluation of the dollar is another. As far back as September, 1960, Mr. Walter Gordon, one of the leading members of the Liberal team, advocated a substantial reduction in the Canadian dollar.

He continued to repeat this theme all through 1961 and well into 1962 and in it he was joined from time to time not only by Mr. Paul Martin but by the whole National Liberal Party. In the report of last year's Liberal convention the following appears: "New monetary policies would stimulate exports and improve Canada's position by lowering the value of the Canadian dollar."

However, once again, the Liberal Party has changed its mind. Now it can see no good at all in devaluation despite the words and recommendation of its leading economist, Mr. Gordon.

In the matter of deficit budgeting it has also changed its views. For most of its past years in opposition the Liberal party violently objected to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's stand that if Canada could go into debt to fight a war, she could also go into debt to help her own people.

Now the Liberals are taking a different line. They do not object to deficit budgeting so long as they are the ones to do it. Their earlier complaints and criticisms have faded away before the vast spending program they are at present busily selling to the voters of Canada—a program which would add billions to Canada's present indebtedness.

Blasting the Sky

IN THE FACE of objections from many scientists in Britain, France, Germany and other Western nations as well as the Soviet Union, the United States persists in its determination to see what happens when a hydrogen bomb carried aloft by rocket is exploded 500 miles above the surface of the earth.

A result is expected to be disturbance of a portion of a radiation belt in the vicinity of that altitude and consequent temporary disruption of radar and electronic communication—over what area, to what degree and for exactly how long, no one knows. Nor, possibly, are all the potential effects fully understood or even imagined.

The United States thus assumes a grave responsibility in its projected nuclear experimenting at high level over the Pacific Ocean.

For ignoring protests from behind the Iron Curtain the American administration can be understood and forgiven. That it is being blind and deaf to the concern of eminent scientists in allied and friendly nations, however, is disquieting, even though their fears may perhaps be exaggerated.

Now Mr. U Thant, the acting secretary-general of the United Nations, has had the forthrightness and courage to speak up in opposition to the tests, reminding Americans that space is not the property of any country.

One must doubt that his advice will be taken. For the experiments are immediately at hand. But the validity of his objection cannot be questioned. And in proceeding with the tests, whether the results prove harmful or not, the United States will consequently diminish the respect in which it is held as leader of the Western world.

What Else?

BERLIN has receded these days from the front pages as a centre of world crisis, but the wall that splits east and west in the city remains as the focal point of continuing acerbity.

And until it comes down West Germany will have no credit truck with East Germany.

The Communist approach is peculiar and bland. Its wall guards shoot East Germans trying to escape and lure unwise West Germans to the dividing line there to drag them inside the Soviet sector of the city. Yet while doing this East Germany has no compunction about asking West Germany to extend trade credits to it.

Just as though both regimes were on the friendliest terms possible.

East Germany has lost several million Germans who escaped to the West during the past decade, and the impact of their departure has badly upset its economy. Ironically it has turned to West Germany for the financial help its mentors in Moscow apparently won't or are unable to give. It seeks nearly a billion dollars in trade credits.

And this while shooting at East and West Germans alike around the wall it erected to split the city in two.

Chancellor Adenauer's blunt reply to the credit request is that the wall must be removed before any such credit will be extended. Any other answer would scarcely seem to fit the situation.

It is typical of Communist tactics to pursue divergent paths at the same time, but holding one hand out for aid while the other belabors the desired donor is certainly a queer way of doing business.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

BY TOM TAYLOR

A FASHION note struck my eye the other day, this time about male trousers, not the feminine shoes I mentioned in passing yesterday. Men pride themselves they can ignore styles but willy-nilly they are being forced to follow the fashion.

If you can't buy your old-style fancy, because it's no longer being sold, for instance, you have to fall in line.

The latest move to orient the male garb, reorient is perhaps the proper term, is to slice off the trouser turn-ups. Or so I read anyway.

I suppose the argument is that these are dust catchers, and certainly they can be. If you mow the lawn with your best pants on enough compost material finds its way into each trouser leg to grow tulips.

And fancy a man going around with tulips sprouting at his ankles.

Silly idea, isn't it, but I suppose you might call the turn-up a silly thing anyway. Redundant at least. Confusing too. Yet with turn-upless trousers a man feels bereft, as though he's been robbed. Paradoxically when he puts on "soup and fish" for some grand social occasion he feels elegant and not a bit deprived.

Principally because this is the role, of course. He wouldn't dream of giving his leg a double cuff because in such instance this simply isn't done.

If the turn-up goes out in entirety it will be a sartorial revolution, just the same. Almost as diverting as a spunk. A few years ago there was a great debate across the Atlantic on this subject, and do you know what? A speaker called for a statue to be erected to the great unknown.

To wit: The person who invented the turned-up trouser. And why? Because, he said, no philosopher, dictator, statesman or hero had ever set an example so long and so scrupulously followed by so many millions across the world.

Did I imply above that men are reluctant to follow the fashion?

I understand the first big change in trouser styling came around 1898 when some Cambridge undergraduates turned up the bottoms of their pants. Not to set a new style. Merely to show off their colored socks. Now young chaps get the best of both deals; they show their socks but keep the turn-ups.

It was around the turn of the century anyway that this startling turn of the trouser began. Certainly if you look in albums of old Victoria life you won't find a single turn-up.

But after the variety men set the style it was no time at all until it became the permanent fashion. You see what colored socks did.

Perhaps this is why blue-jeaned girls put a six-inch turn-up on their trousers; a form of feminine attire which makes one wonder why girls tire so easily of looking like girls.

I have a note in my files that tells me it was King Edward VII who first creased his trousers down the front. Before that the creases were at the side. We owe him a debt of gratitude. Imagine creases down the side!

A side crease would be even worse than the turn-up, but if there really is a move to eliminate the grass catcher I won't mind if they throw in a ban against creases of any kind, down the centre or along the sides.

How delightful it would be if one could be as baggy at the knee as one desired without drawing an askance look. And be in the height of fashion into the bargain.

Which inclines me to wonder where those things they called Oxford bags went to; they were superb examples of insouciant styling.

Apparently the male didn't know when he was well off.

I must say I think the turn-up gives a sort of finish to the trouser bottom and prevents it from tapering away into nothing. It helps a man feel he's good and substantial, lower down and not fading as he lengthens.

But I suppose if the double cuff goes we'll all follow suit like sheep.

Until some adventurer has the courage to reverse the style again or sticks to the turn-up without change.

Seeking to Boost Tourism

Australia Puts On Style

By WILLIAM FITTER from Sydney

AUSTRALIA, casting around for any means to help offset the feared disruption of her trade following Britain's entry into the European Common Market, is taking a renewed interest in tourism.

Since the late 1940s, Canberra has concentrated upon "selling" Australia as a new home to thousands of Britons and other Europeans who want adventure, a "home in the sunshine" or merely a chance to "get away from it all."

It hasn't been a hard sell. The immediate post-war Europe was rugged; thousands of families were displaced. Australia, far from Old World intrigues, border incidents and wars, seemed and proved a very desirable goal.

Can Canberra now persuade a different type of European, and, more to the point, American, that Australia is no less attractive as a "travellers' Mecca?"

Past visitors have said many things of Australia but rarely were they led into wild enthusiasm. They have criticized the hotels, railways, the strict laws which in some states close hotel bars at 6 p.m., and in most cities shops and restaurants on Saturday afternoons. Because of a general lack of interest in catering for other people's tastes, Australia has not until recently been a tourists' delight. The figures are depressing. In 1960 (the last available statistics) Australians touring abroad spent 220 million more than overseas visitors did in Australia. This, Canberra says, is an inexcusable drain on the balance of payments.

But the picture is not entirely black. In 1960, Australia attracted 85,000 visitors, against 54,000 in 1959, and ANTA (the Australia National Travel Association) estimates the 1961 figure at slightly more than 100,000, largely because of a 49 per cent increase in tourists from the U.S. By 1965, ANTA believes the total should rise to 187,000. Further, the federal government has increased its annual grant for tourist promotion to £200,000.

The long-term objective is to boost tourism from a minor industry to one worth £100 million a year. What has Australia to offer?

When President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev met in Vienna just a year ago they agreed on only one thing and that was on creating a neutral Laos. What is more, although it was not disclosed, they talked about the kind of neutrality which both sides would help to establish in this landlocked, primitive jungle country with its royal family and appendage of princes and favorites. Laos was to be neutral, the two Ks said as Cambodia and Burma are neutral.

This would, in effect, have put one more piece in a neutral belt along the borders of Red China. The Soviet Union had been giving military aid to the Communist-led rebels in Laos. Why should they want, if indeed they did want, neutralization? The best guess was that they believed this might prevent a military confrontation between United States forces and the Red Chinese such as occurred when American troops advanced toward the Yalu in the Korean War and were routed by massive Chinese intervention.

Administration policy, insofar as there has been a coherent policy on Southeast Asia, has been to accept this buffer zone of neutrals. The man who has been trying to carry out the policy with energy and resolve is Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

First, a prolonged conference in Geneva, defining the way in which a neutral coalition government would be different. See Australia. More emphasis, too, is being laid on a visit to Australia as part of a Pacific cruise rather than as a single objective.

This new approach to tourism follows a revolt by Australians themselves against the primitive conditions of internal travel which were general 10 to 15 years ago. Monotonous hotel meals, dreary accommodation, communal bathrooms and uncomfortable transport were common until the arrival of the motel and the influx of post-war migrants solved labor problems and brought new ideas in services, food and simple comforts.

In eight years, £23 million has been invested in 430 motels, which accommodate 20,000 travellers a night. Most motels have spacious rooms, wall-to-wall carpets and private bathrooms. Some are air-conditioned and all have heating facilities. Some offer a full restaurant service in addition to the standard breakfast tray.

You find motels everywhere—in country towns, alongside the highways, and in suburbs of the big cities of Sydney, Melbourne and Brisbane. They have ended the reign of the hotelkeeper who took his profit from liquor sales and gave little or no attention to his guests. They cater for a traveller, not just the motorist, and they have forced private and licensed hotels and restaurants to lift their standards to survive.

Alongside this attraction to tourists' comforts, there has been a more skilful exploitation of quick trips to specific points of interest. From Adelaide, overseas visitors can be whisked by plane to Alice Springs for a glimpse of the Outback; from Brisbane, by air and launch they can explore the Great Barrier Reef with its unique coral and marine life. If they seek a more rugged interlude, crocodile or kangaroo shooting, big game fishing or cattle mustering can be arranged.

Or for three Australian pounds a day (all inclusive) you can stay at any one of a score or more hotel-motels at Queensland's semi-tropical Surfers' Paradise for a beachcombing, idyllic week calculated to dispel any thoughts of the A-bomb—or Common Market.

THE forces making for war or peace in Southeast Asia are still in uneasy balance. By swiftly moving 5,000 American troops into Thailand the U.S. administration has temporarily—but only temporarily—held the line.

The choice in Laos is being defined with increasing sharpness. The attempt to create a neutral Laos is becoming more and more complicated by the intrigues of characters that seem to come right out of an up-to-date Gilbert and Sullivan. And at the same time important elements in the military and in the Central Intelligence Agency, skeptical of—or not hostile to—the effort at neutralization, are only too eager to pronounce the attempt a failure and push for recognition of the need to face up to "another Korea."

When President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev met in Vienna just a year ago they agreed on only one thing and that was on creating a neutral Laos. What is more, although it was not disclosed, they talked about the kind of neutrality which both sides would help to establish in this landlocked, primitive jungle country with its royal family and appendage of princes and favorites. Administration policy, insofar as there has been a coherent policy on Southeast Asia, has been to accept this buffer zone of neutrals. The man who has been trying to carry out the policy with energy and resolve is Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

First, a prolonged conference in Geneva, defining the way in which a neutral coalition government would be created in Laos, and then in Washington. Harriman has put all his long experience and skill in diplomacy to the task. But while the outline of an agreement was reached on paper Harriman has for nearly a year been combatting the compounded errors of the past. Whether he will progress with the latest success of the Communist-led troops, following the disastrous retreat of the Royal Lao Army from an outpost in which they should never have been stationed, is a very serious question.

The chief obstacles to an agreement from the Royal Lao side are two of the cast of the up-to-date Mikado. It is an oversimplification to say that Prince Boun Oum, the nominal prince, and Phoumi Nosavan, the illusory strong man who is his deputy, were the creation of the Central Intelligence Agency and the American military mission to Laos. But without their help they could never have been installed in power and the neutralist, Souvanna Phouma, sent into exile.

For months Harriman has been trying, through the American ambassador in Vientiane, Winthrop Brown, to get the Prince and Phoumi to negotiate with the pro-Communist leader, Souvannaphong. The issue is whether they give the defence and interior ministries to the neutralist faction. Boun Oum and Phoumi have repeatedly refused to consider this and lately they have succeeded in stalling on negotiations altogether. As top officials of the U.S. state department are quite prepared to say, the Soviets have shown extraordinary patience.

One reason Phoumi and Prince Boun Oum can be so independent is that the government in Vientiane accumulated a reserve of more than $18,000,000 from American aid. Another reason is the persistent report both in Vientiane and Washington that they are being covertly supported by the veteran CIA types in Laos and encouraged to believe that if they only hold out American troops will be sent in. Harriman believes this is untrue and that the situation is under the control of Ambassador Brown.

But assuming this is true, Phoumi may nevertheless think that if only he is stubborn enough he can count on direct American intervention. For obvious reasons that contingency has never been defined by the president.

It may be, therefore, that the situation is already out of hand on both sides. The approach of the rainy season could mean a pause. But, conceivably, in the not-too-distant future some horrendous decision may have to be taken—to accept the fact of a divided Laos and insure that one-half is held by sending in American forces.

One thing, however, seems certain. No matter what happens to Phoumi, Prince Boun Oum and the others in the cast of "The King and I," they will end up with generous bank accounts in France or Switzerland. That has been the melancholy history of a share of America's past aid to Southeast Asia.

THE trouble with some modern art is not so much the fault of the artists but the art critics.

Consider this from a review in the New York Times of a recent one-man show in New York:

"The effects are metaphysical, at times apocalyptic, in a peculiar German way that marries power and sentiment with abstract intellectual capacity. The imbalance of these components makes Mr. Wechsberg's work at different times killy, sentimentally or abstractly powerful and at other times jolly, sentimentally or abstractly weak."

Beside that prom the paintings would be clarity itself. Perhaps the review shows that what painters can do, writers can do better, or worse.

THE turn of policy is a severe reverse for Liu Shao-chi and his faction; it can hardly leave even Mao's prestige altogether unimpaired. It was no matter of chance that Chou-en-lai alone came forward to proclaim the Ten Tasks, and that Mao and Liu Shao-chi have remained silent in the background.

Chou-en-lai has carried the majority of the central committee, and he represents the new "line." His opponents keep themselves in reserve, hoping to strike back when the storm is over. Nominally, the Great Leap has been halted for the duration of this year only. Is it to be resumed next year? And if so, to what extent, at what pace, and by what means? It is over these questions that the next great political battle will rage.

Factions Fight

By ISAAC DEUTSCHER
(Third of Four Articles)

WHAT has been going on in Peking during recent months?

Here, too, the situation in farming has provided the fulcrum for the factional struggles; and decisions about it have affected every aspect of domestic and foreign policy and the ideological controversy.

After three calamitous years in agriculture and the commune experiment, China's plight is similar to that in which the Soviet Union found itself around the year 1930. At that time, Stalin, undeterred by widespread famine and peasant resistance, pressed on with forcible industrialization and collectivization.

The problem which Mao-Tse-tung and his comrades have had to face is whether they should imitate him and press on with their Great Leap, regardless of the cost. Some of the recent Chinese eulogies for Stalin were undoubtedly meant as an oblique answer to this question.

Until a few months ago Mao gave the impression of being determined to press on; but he kept himself above the din of the factions. The factions have been led, the "left" by the Liu Shao-chi, the president; and the "right" by Chou En-lai, the prime minister.

Under the party's monolithic regime all leaders are, of course, obliged to speak in the same voice when they come out in public. The differences have been unmistakable all the same. During the Hundred Flowers were in blossom, Chou En-lai was to the fore.

Liu Shao-chi was the man of the Great Leap and of the communes and the tough champion against revisionism and Khrushchevism as well as Titoism.

Chou En-lai displayed no enthusiasm for the Great Leap; and he was the conciliator; he went to Moscow for the 22nd Congress in order to repair, not to break, the "unity of the socialist camp."

Early in the spring, the disastrous food situation brought the conflict between the factions to a head. The question was whether China should still go on with the Great Leap. To go on with it, government and party would have had to unleash a Stalinist terror on a scale undreamed of by Stalin.

They would have had to extract meagre reserves of food and raw materials from the country, to disregard the toll that famine would take of the rural population, to crush inevitable revolts, and to concentrate all strength on further industrialization.

Despite their adulation of Stalin, the Chinese somehow could not bring themselves to do this. Perhaps such ruthlessness does not lie in their national character. Perhaps their difficulties appear to them more dangerous than those with which Stalin had to cope.

Who did not have to reckon with a Chiang Kai-shek backed by American power. Nor can Mao altogether ignore Moscow's warnings against "adventurism"—no such warnings from any Communist power had reached Stalin.

Whatever their motives, last April the Chinese brought the Great Leap dramatically to a halt. They arrested for the time being the industrial drive. This is what the "Ten Tasks" proclaimed by Chou En-lai amount to. Henceforth, he announced, agriculture and light industry must have top priority—all available resources must be thrown into these sectors of the economy. Deep cuts have been made in heavy industry. Manpower has been redirected en masse, in the millions, from town to country, and from factory to farm. The government is trying to reduce the population of Canton, Shanghai and other great cities by at least one third. The scale of this movement of population can be gauged from its overspill into Hong Kong.

THE turn of policy is a severe reverse for Liu Shao-chi and his faction; it can hardly leave even Mao's prestige altogether unimpaired. It was no matter of chance that Chou-en-lai alone came forward to proclaim the Ten Tasks, and that Mao and Liu Shao-chi have remained silent in the background.

Chou-en-lai has carried the majority of the central committee, and he represents the new "line." His opponents keep themselves in reserve, hoping to strike back when the storm is over. Nominally, the Great Leap has been halted for the duration of this year only. Is it to be resumed next year? And if so, to what extent, at what pace, and by what means? It is over these questions that the next great political battle will rage.

THE trouble with some modern art is not so much the fault of the artists but the art critics.

Consider this from a review in the New York Times of a recent one-man show in New York:

"The effects are metaphysical, at times apocalyptic, in a peculiar German way that marries power and sentiment with abstract intellectual capacity. The imbalance of these components makes Mr. Wechsberg's work at different times killy, sentimentally or abstractly powerful and at other times jolly, sentimentally or abstractly weak."

Beside that prom the paintings would be clarity itself. Perhaps the review shows that what painters can do, writers can do better, or worse.

THE turn of policy is a severe reverse for Liu Shao-chi and his faction; it can hardly leave even Mao's prestige altogether unimpaired. It was no matter of chance that Chou-en-lai alone came forward to proclaim the Ten Tasks, and that Mao and Liu Shao-chi have remained silent in the background.

B.C.'s Sacred Cabinet Roves Eastern Hustings

Togetherness—Bennett

HALIFAX (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Wednesday the problem of Quebec separatism would be solved with the election of a federal Social Credit government.

The Social Credit premier told a press conference here that national unity would be the result of a Social Credit victory—a unity he said has never before been achieved in Canadian politics.

He said his party "stands against" separatism, and said there would be no need for such feeling in Quebec if his party were elected June 18.

However, he called for the Maritime provinces to start their own brand of separatism.

"They must separate themselves from the old-line parties who have given them such a bad time."

ECONOMIC

The new type of national unity that would follow the election of a Social Credit government would result from the party's economic policies, he said.

Besides giving greater economic freedom to the provinces, he said a national Social Credit government would devalue the Canadian dollar further and enter into new trading organizations.

"Canadians need a 90-cent dollar, not a 52-cent dollar," he said. "We should be crying rather than laughing when our money is worth more than that of our richest buyer."

THE CAMPAIGN X

Skills School Urged

Greater Victoria needs a technical-vocational school, Conservative candidate George Chatterton told 25 people at McMorran's Pavilion last night.

"And I hope it's not too long before this is accomplished," he added.

Discussing unemployment, the Esquimalt-Saanich MP pointed out that 80 per cent of unemployed persons have education under Grade 8.

FIGURE JUMPED

This is why the Conservative government undertook a long-term program of educational and vocational training when it came to office, he said.

In 1951 there were 295,000 unemployed and in 1955 this figure had jumped to 600,000, he said. When in opposition Mr. Diefenbaker had urged the Liberal government to stimulate the economy to counteract the rising unemployment figures.

But nothing was done, he said. "We inherited a recession."

Mr. Chatterton said the federal government now pays 75 per cent of the cost of training the unemployed and 50 per cent of maintaining schools and training instructors.

LIBERALS 'DISHONEST'

"But B.C. has not made proper use of the vocational training program," he accused the Liberals of being dishonest.

"They complain of our deficits but when you ask them which of our programs they would have left undone they won't answer the question."

PROMISE ANYTHING

In addition to this, they promise anything that will get them votes, he said.

"How would they raise the money? Increase taxes? During a recession you reduce taxes. Eighty-five per cent of Canadians are paying less income tax today than they did in 1956."

The Liberals would have been operating under a deficit if they carried out all the policies they advocate, concluded Mr. Chatterton.

Devaluation

No Loss? Nonsense —Pearson

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP)—It is nonsense to say that no money has been lost in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid devaluation of the Canadian dollar, Liberal leader Pearson said Wednesday night.

The Conservatives are making two claims now about the foreign exchange fund, he said. "First, they say that no money has been lost. This is nonsense. The government used up nearly one third of our whole reserve fund in a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to avoid devaluation."

"Second, the Conservatives say that the $62,000,000 received since devaluation was a normal transaction. If that were so, why were the figures ever produced in a way that showed this $62,000,000 as a separate credit?"

Mr. Pearson was speaking to more than 1,000 persons at the West Middlesex Memorial Arena. There was standing room only and more than 100 listened to him from other rooms in the building.

"The certain fact is that the exchange fund received special support in May to the extent of 62,000,000 U.S. dollars," he said.

Two nights ago he suggested that foreign central banks have had to support the Canadian dollar to keep it from slipping past the $2.5 cent mark.

Blue Skies Red Faces

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—Two weathermen who planned to play golf Tuesday called off the match when they both predicted rain.

But the skies were clear all day, and Maj. Charles Clay, meteorologist at Kincheloe Air Force Base, and Art Meyers, of the Sault Ste. Marie Weather Bureau, stayed at their charts.

ROBERT BONNER

Bonner Woos French

QUEBEC (CP)—Speaking easily in French, Attorney-General Robert Bonner of British Columbia said Wednesday night Canadian policy should not include trade with Cuba and Communist China.

Mr. Bonner and Real Caouette, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, spoke at a campaign rally before more than 1,000 people in an armory at nearby Levis.

BLAMES BOTH

Mr. Bonner also said the Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent had created unemployment and Diefenbaker government had been unable to stop it.

The Social Credit cabinet minister spent most of his five-minute address praising Mr. Caouette as "another Laurier." Mr. Caouette and Mr. Bonner earlier spoke to 175 party organizers at a $2-a-plate "Canadian" dinner in Quebec East. Pea soup, beans and "tourtières" (pork pies) were served.

'Unemployed Minor Issue To Tories'

OTTAWA (CP)—John B. Stewart, Liberal candidate for the Nova Scotia riding of Antigonish - Guysborough, accused the Progressive Conservative government Wednesday night of treating unemployment as a "minor inconvenience."

He was on a 15-minute free-time political radio broadcast featuring three Liberal candidates.

MANY AFFECTED
S. Ronald Basford, seeking election in Vancouver Burrard, said approximately one in 20 of those who have a vote is without a job. Many thousands more, including wives and children, were also immediately and directly affected.

'NOT SO STRANGE'
He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement that there is more employment in Canada now than five years ago is "not so strange." In that the country's total population has increased by 2,000,000.

"The important fact, and this is something the Tories have not tried to deny, is that unemployment has grown many times faster than employment."

Last Takeover

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Highways Minister Philip Gagliardi of British Columbia said Wednesday the B.C. Electric takeover was the last takeover in the province by the Social Credit Government.

Mr. Gagliardi made the remark at a press conference here.

NDP Hits No Chord —Thompson

WINNIPEG (CP)—Robert N. Thompson, national leader of the Social Credit party, says the New Democratic Party has failed to "strike a chord" in its federal election campaign.

"The NDP approach is just not going over at all," he said at a press conference here.

Mr. Thompson said a weak point in the NDP platform is its obvious satisfaction in the current status quo of the Canadian government.

On the other hand, he said, enthusiasm is generally mounting in Social Credit principles.

"In Quebec, this enthusiasm is running wild," he said. "And in Alberta, if we don't take every seat, at least 15 of them will be ours."

Peterson Overflow

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Leslie Peterson, British Columbia education minister, said Wednesday night the governments of Alberta and B.C. have adopted all Social Credit doctrines except "that which says anything physically possible is financially possible."

He told an overflow crowd of about 1,000 in a high school auditorium that the British North America Act gave the federal government control of monetary policy with the result the two Western governments had not been able to apply Social Credit monetary policies.

Mr. Peterson said the B.C. government was the first to protest the "tight money policy of the Liberals."

The "tight money policy" had grown worse under the Progressive Conservatives, he said.

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta government probably will decide within a week what government action will be taken to assist drought-stricken farmers in the southern part of the province.

Planned Economy Will Work Local NDP Candidates Insist

NDP candidates in both Esquimalt-Saanich and Victoria federal ridings last night appealed to the Victoria Labor Council for support in the June 18 general election.

Geoffrey Mitchell, NDP hopeful from Esquimalt-Saanich, hammered on the theme that a planned economy is the only answer to the nation's fiscal woes.

HOW MUCH MORE

"If planned economies work in the Scandinavian countries, consider how much more successful they would be in Canada, with our vastly greater resources."

Implementation of economic planning would not be without difficulty — even should the NDP receive a clear mandate.

WILL BE NOTHING

"There are a great many sticky fingers to be tramped on," he said. "When this happens, the scream you have already heard from the Saskatchewan doctors will be nothing in comparison."

He pledged himself and his party to make war on poverty, ill health and preventable ignorance.

COULD HOLD

"I think that one of the old-line parties will win the election," he said, "but the majority will be greatly reduced and we could hold the balance of power."

The NDP candidate for Victoria, Harry Fanthorpe, pressed home the argument that a labor can and must take an active part in politics.

GEOFFREY MITCHELL
... trouble seen

"I have noted a widespread feeling among people in the labor and credit union movements against active participation in politics."

"This of course is nonsense."

We cannot stay out of politics any longer. Those of us who put human welfare before corporate profits must express ourselves through political action."

ONLY COURSE

He called upon union leaders as well as rank-and-file members to re-examine their principles in this regard.

"I think you will agree that political action is the only course open to us."

He went on to appeal for help from the union men in the chore of getting out the vote.

NO REASON

"If we can have one or two people working in every poll, there is no reason why we cannot win this election."

If elected, he concluded, his party would see to it no nuclear weapons were supplied to Canadian forces.

MORE DANGEROUS

"The larger the nuclear club gets, the more dangerous it becomes."

About 30 delegates turned out to hear the candidates.

Laws Aren't Enough

JONQUIERE, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that a true national spirit cannot be developed in Canada by legislation alone.

Mr. Diefenbaker addressed a crowd of 800 in the college hall here, speaking for 10 minutes in French and winding up in less than two minutes in English.

PRIME OBJECTIVE

He said that Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Georges Etienne Cartier — founders of the Conservative party — had placed national unity as the prime objective of the party.

There are distinctions between the two races that constitute Canada said Mr. Diefenbaker and "there is some pressure of trying to abolish this distinction but rather to make sure that they do not become disputes."

STILL HOARSE

The main speech lasting 33 minutes was given by Transport Minister Balcer, still hoarse from his speech in his home riding in Trois-Rivieres Tuesday night.

Mr. Balcer said the Diefenbaker government had recognized the special spirit of Quebec province and the equality of the French language—something the Liberals had never done.

Negligence Hearing

Preliminary hearing in a case arising from a fatal traffic accident May 21 on the Malahat will open July 4 at 10 a.m. in the magistrate's court, new courthouse.

Charged with criminally negligent driving is Frederick William Empey, 841 Esquimalt Road. Killed in the accident was Mrs. Gladys Dobble, 68, of 3817 Saul.

More Pupils Turn Out Than Voters

EXETER, Ont. (CP)—School children greeting Liberal Leader Pearson Wednesday outnumbered the voters in his trip through rich western Ontario farmland.

Mr. Pearson, continuing an intensive tour of Western Ontario ridings with less than two weeks left in the June 18 election campaign, tailored his brief speeches to the occasion.

ELECTION EXAM

He exchanged banter with the youngsters, told jokes on himself and said he hopes the Liberal party will do as well in its forthcoming election exams as the students are doing.

Later, he attended a London coffee party and was to address a night meeting at Strathroy on farm topics.

HOLD PICNIC

Main street crowds ranged between 100 to more than 200 at a noon pop-and-sandwich picnic at Goderich.

The first stop was at Clinton and then at Blythe to chat with students. At Goderich, he said prices are creeping up daily now because of the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in terms of United States currency.

Children Burned

TORONTO (UPI)—Two young children were killed Tuesday in a flash fire and explosion in the basement of a house in suburban Etobicoke. Dead are 16-month-old David McColgan and cousin, Cathy Tumber, 15 months.

Mrs. Judy Barclay, of Mae Meighen Corset Shoppe, tries out the Barcalounger chair which she won in a recent continent-wide newspaper promotion campaign sponsored by the Newspaper Advertising Executives' Association. Mrs. Barclay's chair was the Canadian Zone prize and she participated as the result of a sales presentation made by Miss Kay Paulin of Victoria Press Limited, on the left. The chair was presented by Mr. Sid Sidaway, Retail Advertising Manager of Victoria Press Limited, also in the photo.

Gasoline Boost

Blaming Dollar Peg 'Economic Nonsense'

ALBURNI—Justice Minister Dave Fulton described as "economic nonsense" a suggestion that a proposed rise in gasoline prices is due to the pegging of the Canadian dollar.

During the question period at a meeting here a member of the audience quoted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying that the government action in pegging the dollar at 92½ cents would never affect the Canadian consumer.

ASKED WHY

He was then asked why a certain oil company had referred to the devaluated dollar when speaking of a proposal to raise prices.

Heavy Rainfall Hits Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Rainfall ranging up to more than five inches in 48 hours was reported in northeastern Alberta and rain was continuing in the area Wednesday.

Mr. Fulton stated flatly that the increase was not occasioned by the pegging.

Speaking at a campaign meeting for Harry McQuillan, Conservative candidate for Comox-Alberni, Mr. Fulton said the devaluation of the dollar had had amazing results on all industries of this province.

He referred to the "healthy condition" in fishing, forestry, mining, cattle, fruit and the tourist industries.

INHERITED

He said the Diefenbaker Conservative government had inherited recession and, through leadership for action, had brought the country into a state of expansion.

In 1965 there was a trade deficit of $113,000,000, while in 1961 surplus of export over import had amounted to $180,000,000, and Canada had resumed her place as No. 1 exporter of grain in the world, he said.

Mr. McQuillan also addressed the meeting, attended by 66 persons.

Legion Asks Boost

HALIFAX (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion is seeking an increase of three-quarters of one per cent in the interest rate of the army benevolent fund.

The rate has been increased twice since the fund was created by Parliament in 1947. The fund is held by the federal receiver-general and the interest is paid by the government. The rate was raised in 1961 to four per cent on the first $5,000, 000 in the fund and three per cent on the amount over $5,000, 000.

The legion's convention Wednesday approved a resolution for an increase "at the earliest possible date" to not less than 4 3/4 per cent on the amount remaining in the fund.

The Legion feels the interest rate set in 1961 does not conform with general interest rates paid by the government for its borrowings.

'Return' Awards Listed by Varsity

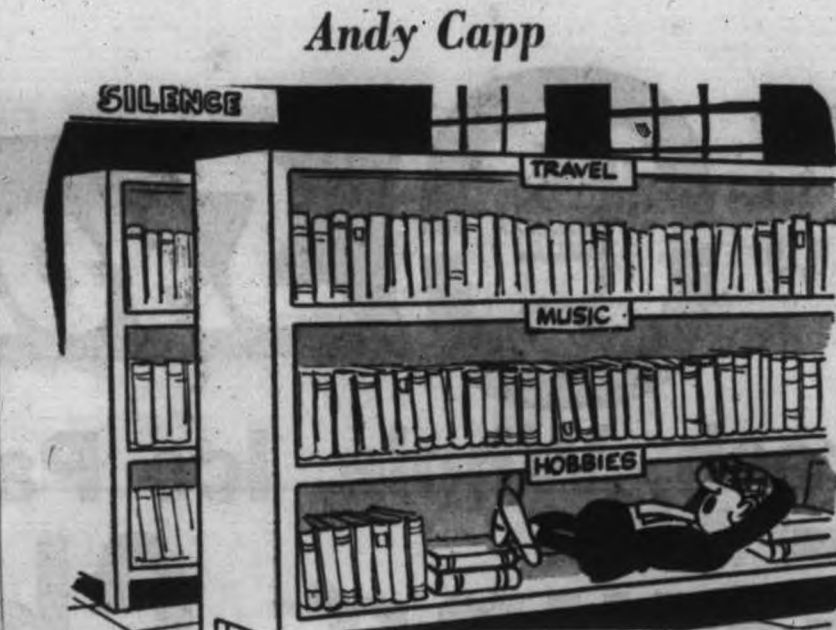

Victoria University officials said yesterday the award of several scholarships and bursaries, which are contingent upon students returning for further training, will be announced in the fall.

The awards in this category are:

Vancouver Island branch, Engineering Institute of Canada $100 scholarship; Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada Association, two $100 scholarships; Gen. and Mrs. G. R. Peakes Prize of $50; Opti. Mrs. Club $150 bursary.

Charles E. Copeland Memorial $100 scholarship; Rotary Club of Douglas $100 scholarship; Victoria West PTA $50 scholarship; Marion D. James $50 award.

Greater Victoria branch, Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation Inc. $100 scholarship; Benny Nicholas Memorial $100 award; Lady Laurier Club $100 scholarship; Nora Lugin Shaw Memorial $60 scholarship; Faculty Women's Club $50 prize.

Cold Medicine Theft 'Not Act of Criminal'

Theft of a $1.25 bottle of cold remedy cost Wallace Fong a $35 fine in city magistrate's court yesterday.

"I'm satisfied that this man is not a criminal," said Magistrate William Ostler. "I think he had a momentary weakness and he succumbed to it."

Henry Jarvis, security officer for Canada Safeway, said he had seen Fong put a package of cold medicine in his pocket at a Safeway store at 1809 Douglas, May 19.

Fong later paid for two other items of groceries, but did not pay for the medicine. Jarvis stopped him on the street outside.

Fong said he had bought the cold medicine for his grandfather, who was sick—and had changed his mind, intending to replace it on the shelf—but had forgotten about it.

$165,000 For Music

OTTAWA (CP)—Grants totaling $165,000 have been made for the encouragement of music, the Canada Council announced Wednesday.

The largest grant, $71,000, goes to the Canadian Opera Company of Toronto.

The Federation of Canadian Music Festivals, Winnipeg was granted $8,000.

Breakwater Extension Step Delayed Until After Poll

Work on the extension of the Turkey Head breakwater will likely be delayed until after the federal election, Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

The 400-foot extension needed to close the gap between the present breakwater and Mary Todd Island would create an enlarged and excellent harbor, said the reeve.

He said the government had originally balked at the suggestion of lengthening the breakwater on the grounds that a channel should be left open between the island and the present breakwater facilities.

"But a channel could easily be dredged around Mary Todd Island," Reeve George Murdoch said.

Commercial fishing boats already take advantage of the existing anchorage in bad weather—and as the marina (Oak Bay marina at Turkey Head) moves out, it will force fishing boats to moor in rough water near the gap, Reeve Murdoch said.

Support for extension of the breakwater has already been pledged by the Victoria Outboard Club. They, in turn have asked the support of the council of B.C. yacht clubs, with some 5,000 members.

Victoria's Power Boat Squadron was largely responsible for gaining support for having the present breakwater installed, Reeve Murdoch said.

The plan for extension of the breakwater would include tunnels to allow a free flow of tides to clear away harbor debris.

A letter was written to the federal government a month ago asking for reconsideration of the project.

REPORTS ON THE ELECTION

It's getting a bit hard for me to keep track of all the Conservative dignitaries who are rushing out here these days and falling all over themselves to reveal their campaign secrets in heavily-billed "Major Campaign Speeches." I notice almost all of them are calling on behalf of their Esquimalt-Saanich candidate. Do they still HAVE a Victoria candidate? First of all there was Mr. Fleming (you all know who HE is!). Then there was the Prime Minister. Mr. Hees came next, closely followed by Mr. Fulton, and still to come is Mr. Green. I haven't found it necessary to call for "help" yet and it makes me feel pretty good to find I am supposed to be such a threat to the Sitting Member. I wouldn't be able to say this if I didn't notice that the Cabinet Ministers do all their shooting in my direction while they are out here. I'm glad to be noticed.

FIND OUT WHY PEOPLE ARE SWITCHING TO DODGE

It takes a real winner to jolt people out of the rut of buying the same make of car year in, year out. Like Dodge. Why Dodge? Many reasons. A slant-six engine that's as powerful as many V8's. A V8 of its own that most others can't match by a mile. Torsion-Air ride that makes Dodge the best-handling, level-riding car in its class. There's something else, too. Maybe you'd call it "character"... "distinction"... or just plain "excitement". Whatever you call it, it's got a lot to do with why so many people are switching to Dodge. Dodge will get you excited, too. So will its low price.

Young Cards Hurler Suspended and Fined

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pitcher Don Larsen walked four consecutive men with none out in the ninth inning to force in the winner after Giants had tied the score in the top of the inning.

Los Angeles Dodgers cut the Giants' lead to one game, completing a game suspended Tuesday with an 8-3 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates, then beating the Pirates, 5-3.

The southpaw was suspended without salary when he didn't show up for Wednesday night's game against Cincinnati.

"I don't see how I can pitch anymore for a guy like this," he said, referring to Card manager Johnny Keane who slapped a $250 fine on the former bonus baby Tuesday night.

General manager Bing Devine, when told that Sadecki wanted out, said: "Ball players have said they wanted to be traded before. . . It doesn't carry too much weight with us."

GAVE UP FIVE

Sadecki, 21, entered Tuesday night's game against Cincinnati in the sixth inning and was removed without getting a man out. Before he left, however, he gave up two home runs, committed two errors, and allowed five runs to score. The Cards went on to win the game 10-9 in 11 innings.

Keane called it "the worst exhibition of effort I've seen on a major league diamond."

MANTLE RETURNING

In the American League, New York Yankees, perhaps cheered by news that Mickey Mantle will be back in the lineup no later than June 15, beat Cleveland Indians, 5-0, on a masterful four-hitter by Ralph Terry to take over first place by one game.

Six Teams Enter Soccer Playoff

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Soviet Union, West Germany and Brazil chalked up victories while Hungary and Argentina wound up with a 0-0 tie Wednesday in the World Cup soccer championships.

The Russian team defeated Uruguay 2-1 at Arica, West Germany beat Chile 2-0 at Santiago and Brazil beat Spain 2-1 at Vina del Mar. Hungary and Argentina played at Rancagua.

Wednesday's play qualified Brazil, West Germany, Chile, Russia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia for the quarter-final series to be played June 10.

England meets Bulgaria today and Yugoslavia meets Colombia to determine the final two quarter-final berths.

However, if the Bulgarians can upset England today then Argentina would qualify for one of the two spots still vacant in the quarter-finals.

Eliminated Wednesday from the championships were Switzerland, Italy, Mexico, Spain, Bulgaria and Uruguay.

Ken Cunningham drove in two of the winners' runs.

Phase one of a six-point survival program went off on schedule for Victoria Shamrocks last night. It came in the form of a 13-8 victory over Burnaby.

Shamrocks have every intention of being in the top positions in the inter-city lacrosse league, but first things first. For the moment, they have to be content with making sure they're going to be around for the playoffs. That's where the six-point plan comes in.

Last night's game was the Nine Goals For Murray

Murray Murrell scored nine goals and assisted on seven others. Drew Schroeder had six goals and five assists, and Ricky Brown added five goals yesterday as Butler Brothers beat City, 21-7, in the bantam division of the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association.

Shamrocks' checking, admittedly spotty at times, looked better than usual against the speedy but inexperienced Norburns. And though the lacrosse was downright dull in the first half, it lived up enough in the second to make it a game worth seeing.

Shamrocks put the game out of reach in the first 48 seconds of the fourth quarter, scoring three goals to make it 10-4. Norburns snapped back with three of their own, but they could never get closer.

Ron Jay scored four goals for the Norburns. The "best game" tag might also be pinned on Don Sepka, who scored twice and looked more competent on defence.

City Sailor Leads In Rifle Aggregate

VANCOUVER (Special) — PO Sandy Peden of Victoria was out in front when action ended Wednesday at Blair Range in the annual B.C. Rifle Association shoot.

The Navy marksmen was leading in the aggregate race with the exceptionally fine score of 300x325 after four of the eight matches had been completed. And he won the Lord Mayor's Rifle for having the highest score in the three City Corporation matches.

Peden, who won the New Westminster Corporation match Tuesday and placed fourth in the Victoria match, was eighth Wednesday in the Vancouver match. His score for the three events was 210x225.

Victorians also placed one-two in the Macdonald Tobacco match, which calls for 10 shots

Rangers Grab Bert Olmstead

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League wound up its three-day annual mid-June meetings by spending a total of $180,000 drafting new players, including veteran Bert Olmstead by the New York Rangers.

Boston and Detroit, which finished last and fifth respectively in the sixteen-team NHL, each picked three players from the grab-bag. But it was the Rangers' choice of Olmstead that perhaps held the most significance. The Rangers also chose one other player in the

All-Stars Tie Sheffield, 2-2

VANCOUVER (CP) — England's Sheffield United dropped its first point in nine games on its 10-game tour of North America Wednesday night when the first division soccer team was held to a 2-2 tie by a fighting Vancouver All-Star team.

A crowd of 10,274 watched the interesting game.

Two goals by centre forward Jim Blundell earned the tie for the Vancouver team which halted Sheffield's touring win streak.

Sheffield had the better of play throughout most of the game but made the mistake of using long, floating passes into the Vancouver goal mouth.

IN FLEWENT

Veteran Vancouver goal keeper Ken Pears was in his element with this procedure and moved smartly out of his net to intercept and clear time after time.

THE PALMER METHOD

A DELIBERATE BACKSWING IS YOUR BEST BET

From the time you first take your stance, keep in mind that you want to make your backswing deliberate, calculated and un-hurried.

The first hand movement I make is a slight nudging forward -- toward the target -- which helps me get into motion.

To keep from breaking the wrist too early on the backswing ("picking up" the clubhead), put extra pressure on the shaft with the last three fingers of your left hand. This tends to immobilize your wrist until later in the backswing, when they break naturally.

This One's For Arnie

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — It's Arnold Palmer's kind of course — long and tough — and also his kind of winning purse — $25,000 — in the season's richest golf tournament, starting today at the Upperville Montclair (N.J.) Country Club.

With these two incentives, the powerful young professional from Latrobe, Pa., is a solid favorite to turn the $100,000 golf classic into his seventh tournament victory of the year.

The lure of the biggest first place prize since the demise of the Tam O'Shanter "world championship" in Chicago has attracted virtually every top-flight pro golfer in the United States, plus representatives from Canada, Australia and South Africa.

Al Balding and George Knudson, both of Toronto, Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Johnston of Montreal are the Canadian hopefuls in the field of 140.

If Palmer can grab off this one, he would boost his year's official money winnings to $84,871. That would beat his own record of $75,268, set in 1960, with half the year left to play.

Logic Plays at Par In Ladies' Tourney

Dozats golfers trying for the Victoria City championship proved predictable yesterday at the Upperville Golf Club as defending champion Margaret Todd moved into the semi-finals along with the two logical contenders, Shirley Naysmith and Joan Lawson.

The latter two meet in one semi-final while Mrs. Todd plays Mrs. G. Hay in the other. Mrs. Todd, going for her 11th title, beat Mrs. T. L. Christie, 3 and 6, yesterday and finished the round for a two-over-par 77. Mrs. Naysmith, who also completed her round and had a 79, won over Mrs. E. Saunders, 7 and 6.

Mrs. Hay beat Mrs. W. Hicks, 3 and 1, and Mrs. Lawson defeated Mrs. T. Liddell, 9 and 7. Today's draw:

In Spine-Tingling Derby

Seven Horses Spill, One Dies

EPSOM (CP) — A sprightly convalescent named Larkspur won the 133rd Derby for Ireland Wednesday after a wild melee unprecedented in Epsom history.

In sensational, spine-tingling fashion, seven horses crashed the turt approaching famed Tattenham Corner. No jockey could satisfactorily explain the spill. One runner, Enid Chanell's French-bred King Canute, broke a leg and was destroyed.

Several riders, including W. H. Carr who is stable jockey for the Queen, suffered head injuries.

Long after Larkspur, a 22-to-1 choice galloped home two lengths ahead of Marcel Bousac's Arcor (40 to 1) and Suxy Volterra's Le Cantillon (8 to 1). Six riderless horses moved slowly down the stretch. It looked more like the finish to a Grand National steeplechase than to a flat race.

Fallers beside King Canute were Placidar, Changing Times, Romulus, Persian Fantasy, Crossen and Hethersett, the horse which English fans installed a 9-2 choice to give 82-year-old Yorkshireman Lionel Holliday his first Derby winner in more than 50 years of trying.

CALGARY HORSE SIXTH

Canada's hope, Prince d'Amour, finished a respectable sixth in the field of 26 after racing prominently all the way in this 1 1/2-mile race for three-year-olds.

His Calgary owners, Max Bell and Frank McMahon, might have thought they were watching a hometown stampede if they had made the journey to Epsom. But business detained them in Canada and Frank's oil executive son was family representative in Epsom's three-tiered grandstand.

The winner is a chestnut colt by the 1954 Derby winner, Never Say Die, out of Skylarking.

Winning owner Raymond Guest, a New York banker who lives in Paris with his French-born wife, told reporters it was the first time he had entered a horse in the Derby.

Blue skies and brilliant sunshine attracted a shirtless crowd to the downs for a race billed as the most open in years.

John Watts, clerk of the course, estimated the attendance at about 400,000.

One absentee was the Queen, suffering from a cold. The

Pakistan XI Responds To Sunshine

LONDON (Reuters)—Warm sunshine brought out the stroke-making abilities of the Pakistan batsmen against Surrey, English county cricket leaders, at the Oval Wednesday.

By the close of the opening day's play, the Pakistanis, who fielded seven of the team beaten in the first test, had hammered out 388 runs for the loss of six wickets.

Opening bat Ijaz made 110, his first century of the tour, and Mushtaq Mohammed delighted spectators with a forceful innings of 89.

Garden Notes

Care for Nut Trees

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRRS

Lucky is the man who buys a home and finds a few nut trees growing in the garden, for these can be a decided asset and respond enthusiastically to any little care and attention lavished upon them. Only too often, though, their owner looks upon them as if they were wild, denizens of the woods and forest, needing no care at all. All the arts and crafts of horticulture are used in pampering the apples and pears and rhododendrons and dahlias, while the nuts, producing a real luxury crop, are left to look after themselves. Filberts and Kentish cobnuts, in particular, will pay handsome dividends over and over again in the size and quality of the crop if they are given a little intelligent pruning in winter and again in summer.

Such pruning has two aims—to produce a handy-sized bowl-shaped tree with about eight main branches starting about 18 inches above ground level, and to encourage the growth of nut-bearing wood.

The bulk of the crop will be carried on short, twiggy, two-year-old side shoots or laterals, which must be retained rather than the stout, vigorous, unproductive shoots. This looks all wrong to the man whose experience has all been with fruit, and his first impulse is to cut out these little, tough, wiry side shoots which look so unimpressive and spindly, but it is the strong-looking laterals which must be restrained.

At this season of the year, you can't just cut away these unproductive woody shoots, for the tree is bursting with energy and a regular forest of shoots would spring out to take their place. Instead, they are restrained by a very old and rather odd process known as break-pruning or "brutling." The unwanted side shoots are bent and twisted by hand until they are partly broken but not all the way through, with the break made approximately four inches from the parent branch.

These broken shoots are left dangling all summer, making a very untidy-looking tree, but it does the job. Because the broken lateral is connected to the tree still by a strip of bark, it neither dies nor grows but just hangs there, half alive and curbing the natural tendency of the tree to push out replacement growth of the same vigorous, non-productive kind. Then, during the winter, these broken shoots are removed and the stub cut back another two inches.

If your raspberries were wormy last year, you can be reasonably sure those horrid grubs will be in the berries again this year unless something is done to discourage the attentions of the raspberry beetle.

The adult beetle lays her eggs in or on the flower buds, and a good dusting before the flowers open will help enormously in controlling this pest. The treatment should be repeated just after petal-fall to catch any of the larvae which may have escaped. I must emphasize that absolutely no dusting or spraying may be done during the blossoming period, or valuable pollinating insects will be killed.

DDT is good, or any of the all-purpose proprietary garden dusts will do the trick, and you needn't worry about the poison in them—it will all be gone by the time the berries are ready for picking. However, if you don't like the idea of using a poison on an edible crop, you can substitute derris dust, which is harmless to humans and all warm-blooded creatures.

Never in English Agayan

We all know about the great literary outpouring from the Deep South that has flooded the stage and the movies with the works of William Faulkner, Margaret Mitchell, Tennessee Williams and such. But one thing that has not attracted sufficient attention is that the actors and actresses who have played these Southern heroes and belles are not Southern (Clark Gable, Elizabeth Taylor) and sometimes not even American (Vivien Leigh, Laurence Harvey).

This has produced one of the weirdest professions in the whole world—the teaching of genuine Southern accents to non-Southerners, and by far the greatest practitioner of this small art is Marguerite Lamkin, a tiny Southern girl who now has retired.

When Marguerite speaks, magnolias burst into bloom for miles around and so contagious is her accent you find yourself making three-syllable words out of two-syllable words. Ah may never speak English agayan. But let Marguerite speak for herself:

"Ah worked first on the stage play of Cat on a Hot Tin Roof at the request of Tennessee and Kazayan, whom ah met at a cocktail party. Tennessee told Kazayan ah was lak Maggie in Cat. Kazayan asked me to work for him."

Soon Hollywood heard Marguerite was a specialist in the teaching of Southern accents and beckoned her to teach Dana Wynter how to be Southern for View from Pompey's Head.

"Elizabeth Taylor was the bai-yest pupil ah've had. She has a mahvelous e-yah. As a result of all this teachin', ah've got terribly South'n mahself. Ah've had to quit because ah was gettin' to be a parody on mahself."

Marguerite says being Southern is not so much a matter of vocal sounds as of personality and some people should never attempt it. Doris Day, for example, "They must have a fey quality. They must be bawn with it. She and Elizabeth both have the same fey quality. Ah mean they aren't tennis players."

Since Miss Lamkin has given up this kookie profession, she has taken to writing books.

"Ah have mah hair done every single day and ah wrote the whole thing under the dryer," says Miss Lamkin, who is as fey as they get in this prosaic world. "Ah don't know what ah have mah hair done every day. Ah guess it's cause ah lak to read the newspaper."

In her book, Miss Lamkin advances the suggestion the whole human race is composed of either cat people or dog people.

"Dogs have their feet on the ground. (I'm going to keep this theory in English because I haven't space for all those extra syllables.) Cats don't. Dogs tell you what they had for breakfast, mistrust fortune tellers, weigh themselves and pack with tissue paper."

"Cats love Papal processions, private zoos and sky rockets. An ideal marriage is a cat woman and a dog man. A safe marriage—two dogs. Elizabeth Taylor and the Duchess of Windsor are cats. Richard Nixon is a dog."

Eddie Fisher's a Hero!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—An unexpected change has come over my fan mail concerning Eddie Fisher—a goodly percentage of letter-writers are pulling for him. It's beginning to seem he did something heroic in leaving Debbie Reynolds and their children, and in getting the boot from Elizabeth Taylor. It's nothing of the kind, but there is an appeal in a man refusing to be counted out after a staggering blow.

Sid Luft lingers in London, which makes Judy Garland very nervous—she is worried somehow he will manage to remove their children from her custody.

Mrs. Charles Boyer is worried for another reason—Cleopatra will have some weeks of filming in Ischia, and Charles and I go there every summer for peace and quiet. Can you imagine peace and quiet with Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton there?

Debbie Reynolds is putting the finishing touches to her book, If I knew Then, in Palm Springs. She went there utterly exhausted after completing her My Six Loves movie.

Top stars of the calibre of Bette Davis, Barbara Stanwyck and Helen Hayes are interested in playing the dowager empress of China in 35 Days at Peking. It's a very meaty, mean-woman part.

I'm sorry Marilyn Monroe has been ill again. Marilyn never wears anything when she swims, not even a swimming cap. She hadn't reckoned on water getting into her ears and causing her so much distress. It's a pity, especially as Marilyn has never looked so beautiful in all her years of stardom.

Gene Kelly, when asked to direct a musical on Broadway: "I won't do anything on Broadway; it's a real estate business." ... It's a shame that pretty Joan Collins falls in love with men who don't want to marry—currently Anthony Newley, and, before him, Warren Beatty.

Emmy winner E. G. Marshall will be off to England in June for three weeks to make some personal appearances and perhaps star in a Double Indemnity special for the BBC. I saw this on the late late show the other night with Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray and Edward G. Robinson. Excellent.

Famed British comedienne Cissy Courtage has signed to play a retired elderly vaudeville actress in Leslie Caron's picture, The L-Shaped Room. Cicely and her husband, Jack Hulbert, have been filling London theatres for the last 40 years.

Having made two pictures with Bob Hope—her current one is Critics' Choice—Lucille Ball wants to work with his Road sidekick, Bing Crosby. This is good news for Columbia producer Arthur Hoffer who is after the famous couple to star in his movie version of The Great Sebastians.

Montreal Has Millions For 1967 World Fair

QUEBEC (CP)—The provincial government is attempting to get a world's fair for Montreal in 1967 as part of Canada's centenary celebrations.

Premier Lesage said yesterday he will meet Mayor Jean Drapeau in Montreal Friday to discuss the matter. A $15,000,000 fund is available for construction.

Municipal Spending Analysis Disputed by Victoria Mayor

City budget figures do not reflect some of the city's actual expenditures, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday.

He was taking issue with a Colonist analysis of municipal spending among Greater Victoria municipalities. The Colonist asked the four municipalities for budgeted expenditure in a number of departments and divided the figures obtained by population.

"The city has a high assessment in relation to the number of people who live here because it is the business centre," he said.

"So the true yardstick should be a comparison of expenditures for each $1,000 of assessment, which would likely show a very different picture."

"The fallacy of the per capita basis is that you might have a heavy concentration of children in one municipality."

"The figures used did not take into account the income the city receives, which reduces the net costs of services."

"As this is the hub of the area there are certain services provided by the city and shown as a gross figure in the budget, but part of the cost of these services is borne by outside municipalities — the library, health board, juvenile detention home, family court and civil defence, for instance."

Impaired By Pill, Fined $75

VANCOUVER (CP) — A motorist who became dazed after taking a barbiturate was fined $75 here for impaired driving. Robert Tomner, 29, was arrested May 31 after police noticed him driving slowly along a main downtown thoroughfare.

No Decayed Teeth at All

VANCOUVER (CP) — Your children could grow up without losing a single tooth from decay.

And if all preventive measures were carried out many children would have no decayed teeth at all.

This is the claim of Dr. C. R. Castaldi, professor of children's dentistry at the University of Alberta.

Dr. Castaldi, attending the national convention here of the Canadian Dental Association, said at one time a dentist who could place silver fillings in the primary teeth of children was considered a competent child dentist.

He said long-term growth studies show many cases of disfiguring and crooked teeth can be prevented by treatment between the ages of six and eight. Formerly crooked teeth required extensive corrective dentistry during adolescence.

Thus, he said, the modern general practitioner no longer examines a child's mouth in terms of the number of decayed teeth present.

He looks for early signs of crowding of teeth, abnormal positions of the tongue during swallowing and determines whether habits such as thumb sucking are interfering with normal jaw development.

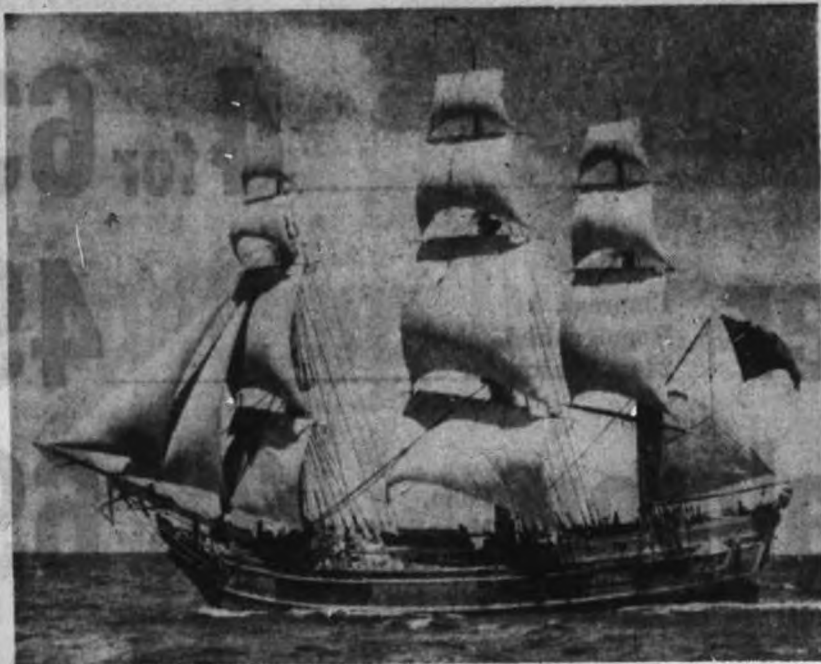

Dr. Castaldi said recent research at the University of Indiana showed that where water supplies are fluoridated, teeth are cleaned and painted with fluorides and a fluoride tooth paste is used, 80 to 90 per cent of decay can be prevented among children.

Waste a Vice, Cubans Told

HAVANA (AP) — "To waste is a capitalist vice; to save, a principle of socialist morals." Under this slogan, pressed by a shortage of raw materials and dollars, Cuba has begun a campaign to salvage usable discarded ranging from bottle caps to bathtubs.

The neighborhood vigilante cells, the committees for the defence of the revolution, have urged citizens to turn in their empty bottles, rags, old newspapers, empty containers and any eventually useful item. The ministry of industries is running advertisements in newspapers requesting readers to contribute something — even a part of a broken key.

Billy the Bug Took No Lip

By J. T. JONES

With characters around like Billy the Bug, Archie Fox, Cornelius Hoyt and reliable old John Butts, there could hardly ever be a dull moment in the Victoria of a century ago.

Billy the Bug was a jack-of-all-trades, mostly teamster, who did some of his best work with his fists. All the same, he was well liked around town and known as a square dealer. It just didn't pay to give him any lip.

His real name was John Costello, and many of the news items about him in the files of The Daily British Colonist concern his winning this contract or that. But every once in a while there would be something like this:

"John Costello, better known as Billy the Bug, yesterday appeared before Magistrate Pemberton to answer the charge of assault, in blacking the eye of a man whom he had employed to freight some sheep to San Juan Island. Billy told a very straight story, alleging that the man had been remiss in his duty, and when called on to perform his work according to contract, had replied with abuse, whereupon the defendant gave him a thorough thrashing. Several respectable witnesses corroborated Billy's statement, and he was only fined five shillings as a sort of moral tonic, while the complainant was ordered to pay the costs of the court."

Then there was the case of the Green-Eyed Monster, the same day.

"Archie Fox, a colored man, with the assistance of a maid of the forest, keeps house in town," recorded the Colonist, "and upon returning home on Saturday night he was grieved and incensed to find an Indian enjoying the society of the fair lady."

Archie boxed his ears and turned him out, and the stranger in turn stoned the house and broke the windows. The magistrate fined each of them 10 shillings—"the Indian for smashing the windows and Archie for smashing the Indian."

Cornelius Hoyt was the central figure in a rumput at Odell's Saddlery on Government Street.

When Mr. Odell was carried off to jail as a debtor, Hoyt "armed himself with a bowie knife and laid claim to the shop and its contents, and defying Mrs. Odell to turn him out, declared himself master of all he surveyed."

This didn't last long. He was thrown in the jug himself and next day had to post a good behavior bond.

As for John Butts, the town crier who sometimes added a little slander between the commercials, he was in court this time for assault on an Indian. His excuse was that he was afraid of smallpox and shoved the man to avoid touching him. Fine: $1.

Meanwhile, in the rich Cariboo, miners were sitting by their fires writing notes to Victoria friends, like this:

Dear Joe—I am well, and so are the rest of the boys. I avail myself of the present opportunity to write you half-a-dozen lines to let you know that I am well, and doing well—making from two to three thousand dollars a day! Times good—grub high—whisky bad—money plenty.

Yours truly,
Wm. Cunningham.

Board Approves Men's Choice

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Labor Board Tuesday ruled that Local 6166 of the United Steelworkers of America will be certified as bargaining agents for the 2,000 workers at Thompson, Man.

The workers, employees of the International Nickel Company, voted April 23-26 in favor of the Steelworkers over the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

LONDON (Reuters)—Two British doctors arrested by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces in southern Laos are safe as are two embassy officials sent to rescue them, a foreign office spokesman said Tuesday.

What About The COST OF LIVING?

Since the devaluation of the dollar we hear of increases in the price of bread, of a cup of coffee, and in restaurant meals, gasoline and car prices. What's next?

Everyone Welcome!

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Fleisch

There are three types of mystery stories—the classic puzzle-type, the hardboiled action-type, and the type written by the French writer Simenon.

Years ago the detective story business split into two warring camps—the traditional body-in-the-library school and the realistic gangster-and-killer school. Then along came a French genius named George Simenon who proved there was a third possible way to write a suspense novel. Let me describe it.

Simenon's detective is a chunky, stolid, middle-aged Paris police inspector named Maigret. He smokes a pipe and likes quantities of beer, along with other alcoholic fare. He's happily married to a pleasant, friendly, middle-aged woman.

Doing Nothing

His method of solving a murder consists mainly of doing nothing—that is, of working on the case, doing all the obvious police moves, and then quietly sitting and waiting. Maigret is not brilliant. He does not, like Sherlock Holmes, and his successors, figure out the meaning of clues and the logic of the criminal's behavior. Rather, he relies on intuition and hunches, on his vague, inarticulate feelings about the case.

While he's waiting, he goes around the neighborhood, talks to people in stores and shops, soaks up the atmosphere surrounding the crime. He has no plan, no Hercule Poirot-type scheme for trapping the murderer. All he has is his animal-like obstinacy in sticking to the place where the crime was committed and waiting, waiting, waiting.

The Patience of Maigret is the title of one of the stories, but it could well be the title of all of them. Maigret wins—he always does, of course—by patience, patience, and more patience. He sits—and lets life, fate, human nature solve his case for him.

11-Day Stories

Simenon is one of those writers who keeps up an enormous production—he writes each of the Maigret stories in exactly 11 days. There must be scores of them in print now. The latest—Maigret Rents a Room (Popular Library paperback)—is as fine an example as any. Maigret, as the title says, rents a room at the scene of the crime, and there he stays, day after day after day. The suspense, as in all Simenon books, gets more and more oppressive and finally unbearable, until the last few pages Maigret's patience is rewarded and the criminal is caught.

I've become quite a Simenon fan. I think the Maigret novels are not only wonderful, haunting stories, but they're also life-like and meaningful in a very special way. Life's problems, they seem to say, are solved by patience, sitting it out waiting for nature to take its course. There's no use in hurrying what can't be hurried; there's no point in relying on logic where logic doesn't apply. When the time has come to sit and wait, let's sit and wait.

Elford Centre For Retarded Opens Friday

The new Elford occupation centre for the retarded will be officially opened at 3.45 p.m. Friday by Dr. Brock Chisholm.

The old house at 1450 Elford Street was purchased in September, 1960, by the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

Regular classes at the centre now are attended by 17 post-school-age retarded and six pre-school-age retarded children.

A full-time supervisor, a part-time craft teacher and four volunteer workers conduct activities at the centre, which include cooking, laundry, weaving, ceramics and other crafts.

The centre will be open for public inspection Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

HER HEART BELONGS TO DADDY

Whenever Daddy's away from home, the very nicest moment in Debbie's whole day comes around 7:15 p.m. That's the time when Daddy always phones long distance - from Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto or wherever he happens to be visiting.

Do you keep in touch with the family regularly when you're absent on business trips? It brings so much happiness and reassurance to hearts like Debbie's. And it costs so little.

After 6 p.m. each evening (and all day Sunday) long distance rates drop by about one quarter. Vancouver to Regina, for example, can cost as little as $1.65.

Why not call them tonight, when long distance rates are lower?

Downed Fliers Had a Picnic

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American priest and a doctor who spent almost three days in the British Columbia bush beside their downed plane describe the experience as a "picnic."

Father Tom Adams, 39, a Roman Catholic priest, and Dr. G. S. Flaherty, 62, both of Milwaukee, were found Tuesday by an RCAF search plane about 70 miles north of Fort Nelson. They ran low on fuel Saturday and chose to land their amphibious aircraft on the Fort Nelson River.

They said in a telephone interview from Fort Nelson they were "having an enjoyable time except for worrying about our relatives, who would be worrying about us."

Father Adams said they spent much of the daytime reading, clearing the river bank around their plane and organizing their provisions—which were plentiful for their holiday trip.

18 Caught Five Free In Regina

Meanwhile, officials are considering some of the more reasonable requests in a petition from prisoners at the minimum security jail.

Labor Hits Boosts

The threat of price increases in such products as bread, gasoline and a cup of coffee drew sharp protests last night from delegates to a regular meeting of the Victoria Labor council.

A letter from the council protesting the increases was ordered sent to the federal government.

Several delegates attacked the recent announcement by some major bakeries that bread prices are due to increase by one cent a loaf.

"They say the devaluation of the dollar is to blame," said one delegate, "but all of the products used in bread manufacture are produced here in Canada. What sort of an excuse is that?"

"Just a way of putting the price up and getting away with it," retorted another delegate.

Still another accused local restaurants of seizing upon the dollar devaluation as an excuse for putting up the price of a cup of coffee.

Council received assurance from St. Joseph's Hospital that all further contracts let in the building program would stipulate use of local union workers.

A. H. Gildemeister restated a demand made at an earlier meeting calling upon candidates in the forthcoming federal elections to declare themselves in favor of a plan for federally-subsidized recreation centres for elderly people.

"Older people come here from all over Canada, and they very much need a place where they could gather for a little recreation and companionship."

$100,000 Ship Refit Awarded to Yarrows

Victoria's already-bustling shipbuilding industry will benefit to the tune of a further $100,000 job, Conservative A. DeB. McPhillips announced last night.

The federal department of defence production has given a contract for the docking and refit of HMCS Fortune to Yarrows Ltd., Mr. McPhillips told 28 people in White Eagle Hall.

He said the present shipbuilding boom here will provide work for the next five years.

Securing work for the industry had been his principal job as a Conservative member in Ottawa, he said, and "I think this is a lot more effective than speeches in the pages of Hansard."

This was a reference to charges by Liberal Foster Isherwood that Mr. McPhillips had made few speeches in the Commons.

Mr. McPhillips pledged he will press Ottawa for the construction of a $10,000,000 breakwater at Macaulay Point which would triple the usefulness of Victoria's outer harbor.

"I'm going to get this breakwater and I'm not going to rest until I do," he said.

IN DANGER Until such a breakwater was built the outer harbor would be in danger from the prevailing southwesterlies, said Mr. McPhillips.

In reviewing his work in Ottawa during the past five years, he said he had been "beating a path" to the door of cabinet ministers to get much-needed projects for this area.

"POWER BARONS" He also said he had been instrumental in keeping the "power barons" away from the Fraser River by introducing a bill banning power development on the world's greatest salmon river.

"Now, with the Peace and the Columbia, they will never dam the Fraser and its salmon are safe forever," he said.

LOOK BACK Mr. McPhillips heaped scorn on the Liberal slogan of "take a stand for tomorrow" and said one only had to look back at their stand of yesterday.

"Their stand was completely negative. With their tight money they were putting us straight into a depression," he said. "There would have been a depression but for John Diefenbaker."

WERE "PEANUTS" And although Canada had to go into deficit financing to get out of the mess the Liberals had left the country in this was merely "peanuts" compared with the wealth of Canada.

Mr. McPhillips said Social Crediters had been claiming this province had not been given a "fair shake" by Ottawa.

DOESN'T TELL Yet if it wasn't for federal grants B.C. could never have afforded either the new government ferry service to the mainland nor the construction of its fine highways.

"But Mr. Bennett doesn't tell you about that," he said.

WOULD BE FATAL Chairman of the meeting, Pat Sinnott, said this country could not afford to have Liberal leader Lester Pearson at the helm.

"It would be fatal to the interests of this country if Lester Pearson were entrusted with our affairs," he said.

Motel Manirate

Should Sue City Says Ash Victim

City council should be sued for dereliction of duty over Victoria's smoke and fly ash problem, an irate motel operator said last night.

"They've just been completely laggardly," said L. E. Todd, managing director of the Windsor Motor Court.

"I think somebody is afraid of the mills or the operators," he said. "I don't want to become involved in any lawsuits, but by golly, it looks like it is going to have to come to that."

JUST DISGUSTED "I think the ones who should be in court are the council, for dereliction of duty."

"I am just disgusted with the whole thing."

Mr. Todd bitterly criticized the city's smoke advisory committee which last week decided to investigate before launching prosecutions.

GUESTS LOST "Those characters that are on the committee, that was just another big stall they pulled the other day."

"I have lost three guests in one morning because of this. They came out and their cars were just covered with that black ash," he said.

INTO UPHOLSTERY "One had a white Lincoln Continental and the ash had even infiltrated into its upholstery."

"Our pool, that's really something! I have seen it on that pool that you couldn't put your hand down on water that was not covered with ash."

DUMP GARBAGE "If I had all my guests go and dump their garbage on the properties of the offenders they would certainly take action," said Mr. Todd.

"There is no material difference whatsoever in the situations—it is all refuse. Ash is the refuse that occurs in their line of business."

John A. Ross, resident manager of the Tally Ho Travel Lodge, added:

Lee Wing Ting and bride.

Chinese Bride In City at Last

A wrangle involving a federal cabinet minister, the Canadian immigration department's Hong Kong office and a Victoria legal firm came to a happy conclusion yesterday as Chinese-Canadian Lee Wing Ting's wife set foot on her adopted land.

Her arrival in Victoria spells final victory for Mr. Lee, who began the battle to get his wife into the country almost two months ago.

CERTAIN MATTERS He married attractive, Chinese-born Ma Man Wah in Hong Kong last fall.

When the time came to return to Canada, Mr. Lee was allowed to return home but was informed his wife could not enter the country until he had "cleared up certain matters concerning his identity."

When Mr. Lee arrived home alone, his angry father, Lee Loy Yick, took the problem to Victoria lawyer David Hummel.

A blizzard of letters between the legal firm and the department of citizenship and immigration resulted in the department reversing its stand and Mrs. Lee was allowed entry into Canada.

IS DELIGHTED Though still feeling the effects of her long journey from Hong Kong, Mrs. Lee is delighted with her new home.

"We're very happy it's all over," Mr. Lee said from his home at 807 Kings Road yesterday as the diminutive Mrs. Lee stood happily beside him.

Liberal leader Lester Pearson, campaigning in Ontario not so long ago, was feted with coffee and doughnuts at stop after stop.

As they left for the next engagement, an aide said: "What's coming up next?"

"That last doughnut," sighed Mr. Pearson.

Honored

Elderly Woman Helps Children of World

By JIM NEAVES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Neely children throughout the world have benefited from the misfortune of a bed-ridden but indomitable Winnipeg woman.

Miss Mary Campbell, 80, was honored recently when officials of the Canadian Save the Children Fund visited her to mark the completion of her 1,000th quilt.

The quilts have been sent to children in Korea, Greece, Italy and in various parts of Canada. Following a lifetime of travel, making the quilts has proved as much benefit to Miss Campbell as they have to the children. The quilts are called "vitamin pill quilts" by her doctor.

The bright-eyed woman with a young mind and eager hands was bedridden three years ago after breaking her hip. One of her friends showed her a bundle of patches and suggested she might like to make them into a quilt.

When it was finished there were patches left over and Miss Campbell began another, smaller one, "just the right size for a child."

Since then, propped up by pillows as she lies in bed, she has turned out 1,000 of the 50-by-40-inch quilts and says "I try to make five a week."

Talking about the therapeutic effect of the work, she related: "I woke up one night and the pain was bad, so I reached for a pill. But my hand picked up a quilt and first thing I knew I was sewing. After two hours the quilt was done and the pain was gone."

When her doctor teasingly asked her whether the pill or the quilt did the trick, she replied: "Keep your breath to cool your porridge." The pill was still there.

The Scottish expression is one of many that color the speech of the daughter of a Scottish missionary.

Mary Campbell was born in Formosa Dec. 22, 1881. Her mother was Australian. When she was five she was taken to Scotland for her education.

At 21 she returned to Formosa where she accompanied her father on his missionary tours to 36 churches across the island. Head-hunters added to the excitement of the trips. Mary and her father were the first white persons some of the head-hunters had ever seen. They were fascinated by the color of her skin and she in turn was fascinated by the knives they wore, each of which was decorated with locks of hair representing a decapitated head.

Six years later she was appointed by Zenana Bible and Medical Mission to travel across Canada telling of the mission's work in India. First, however, she travelled extensively in Asia to become acquainted with the work.

For 25 years from 1911 she crossed and re-crossed the continent telling of the mission's work. When the Second World War broke out she turned to Red Cross work and continued it until her accident.

Helping children doesn't end with quilts. She supports the work of the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children and has endowed a bed at Winnipeg Children's Hospital.

Dear Mrs. Packer: I enjoy your column very much and have found many of your hints to be most helpful. I wonder if you or your readers might have a suggestion regarding slipping scatter rugs. I have tried several commercial sprays which state they will keep rugs from slipping but they didn't help.—Mrs. G. S.

You could try the old-fashioned trick of attaching rubber jar rings to the under side of the mats, or squares of thin sponge rubber. You will find packages of sponges in assorted sizes, quite reasonably priced at housewares counters.

RECOMMENDS NEW RECKITT'S BLUE FOR USE IN WASHING MACHINES

"Using Reckitt's Blue is still the only way to get clothes really white, the way I like them. And it is now available in modern powder form for use in both semi-automatic and fully-automatic washing machines. It comes in a handy package of air envelopes. You simply add the contents of one envelope to your wash at the same time as your soap. Be sure to try RECKITT'S BLUE in your washing machine on your very next wash day. It's inexpensive, easy to use—and actually helps to prevent yellowing."

RECKITT & COLMAN (CANADA) LIMITED

Any suggestions from readers who have solved this problem will be forwarded to Mrs. G. S. One precaution we should all keep in mind concerning scatter rugs, is never to place them at the top of a staircase where they may cause a bad fall should they skid underfoot.

Created in honor of June dairy month, cheesecake supreme is a dessert of sheer elegance in both its appearance and beautiful flavor.

Take Choice Of Cheesecake

"To bake or not to bake" ... that is the question. Or should we say just one of the questions in the controversial world of cheesecakes. For each and every cheesecake fan has decided opinions of just what the ultimate in cheesecake should be.

CHEESECAKE SUPREME
(Makes 12 Servings)

One cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg yolk, 1/2 cup soft butter.

Three (4-ounce) packages cream cheese, 1 1/2 cups (12-ounce) cottage cheese, 3 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Two pints fresh strawberries, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

For the Crust: Sift flour and sugar together; add and mix in lemon rind and vanilla. Make a well in centre of flour mixture and add egg yolk and butter. Blend well until dough is smooth. Wrap in waxed paper and chill 1 hour. Pat 1/2 of the dough in bottom of an 8-inch spring form pan. Brush sides of pan with soft butter. Press remaining 1/2 of dough around sides of pan.

For the Filling: Preheat oven to 400°F. Cream cheese until soft. Press cottage cheese through a sieve and beat into cream cheese. Add eggs one at a time, beating in well after each addition. Gradually beat in sugar. Beat in lemon rind and juice. Turn mixture into pastry-lined pan. Bake in preheated oven 12 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 300°F, and continue to bake until filling is set, about one hour. Turn off oven and let cheesecake stand in oven about one hour. Remove from oven and chill.

For the Glaze: Wash, hull and halve berries. Crush sufficient berries to yield 1 cup. Combine cornstarch and sugar in a small saucepan; blend in water and crushed berries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until smoothly thickened. Cover and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally for 5 minutes. Stir in lemon juice. Press mixture through a sieve. Arrange strawberry halves on cheesecake. Spoon hot glaze over. Chill.

BAVARIAN CHEESECAKE
(Makes 9 Servings)

1 cup 1/2 namon graham wafer crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 cup butter, melted. Three (4-ounce) packages cream cheese, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind.

Half pint dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

For the Crust: Combine wafer crumbs, the 2 tablespoons sugar and melted butter; press 1/2 cup of the mixture in bottom of a 9-inch square cake pan. Chill.

For the Filling: Preheat oven to 350°F. Cream cheese until soft; gradually beat in the 1/2 cup sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Beat in vanilla, salt and lemon rind. Pour this mixture over crumbs in pan. Bake in preheated oven 20 minutes. Cool 15 minutes. Meanwhile, prepared topping.

For the Topping: Preheat oven to 450°F. Combine sour cream, sugar and vanilla. Spread over cheesecake. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over top. Bake in preheated oven 5 minutes. Cool, then chill. Cut into 9 squares.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: In this day and age when divorced people are so busy back-biting and competing for the affection of their children I'd like to say a word about one divorced woman who did it the other way. My mother.

Dad left her to marry another woman. We were very young at the time and didn't know what the word divorce meant. All we knew was that Daddy didn't live at home anymore. We never heard one word against him. "He is a fine person," mother would tell us. "You must always love and respect him."

Through our growing-up years Mother bought little gifts and cards for us to send to Dad. She dressed us in our very best, put ribbons in our hair and checked our fingernails before Dad came to get us for the evening. When he was ill she arranged for us to visit him.

When I married I walked down the aisle on my father's arm. Mother was gracious and charming to his other family. They had the good judgment to stay well in the background.

This is the way one set of "divorced children" grew up—without hostility, without conflict, without anxiety. And all because our mother was a lady.—CONTENT.

Mother Finds Family Dead

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A young mother collapsed in shock Wednesday after she encountered the scene of a car crash that killed her husband and their three small children.

Mrs. Helen Knaggs had given up waiting for her husband to arrive to pick her up from work, and was returning home with a friend when she recognized the mangled frame of the family's station wagon.

CRUMPLED

She ran screaming to the car, and crumpled at the sight of her husband's body in the car and the tattered remains of her children's clothing on the road.

Killed were Leonard Douglas Knaggs, 30, and the couple's children; Timmy, six; Cindy, four, and Joey, 18 months.

Four young men in the other car involved in the collision suffered minor injuries.

VERY UPSET
Mr. Knaggs had never been more than a few minutes late in picking his wife up each night when she finished her shift as a waitress at a cafe in nearby Surrey.

A friend of the family, Mrs. Mildred Pelletier, said Mrs. Knaggs was "very upset" when an hour passed and her husband did not come.

She accepted a ride home with Mr. Pelletier. They left on the only route they could take to the Knaggs home.

Wayne Wilby, 23, a tow truck driver, said it was one of the worst accidents he had ever seen.

THROWN FROM CAR
"It was horrible. I've never seen cars mangled so much before."

It took two trucks almost two hours to straighten out the Knaggs car, and allow police and ambulance men to free the body of the dead driver. The children were thrown from the car in the impact.

Police said their bodies had been removed from the scene a few minutes before their mother arrived.

BOUGHT RECENTLY
Mrs. Pelletier said Mrs. Knaggs worked at the cafe to get extra money so that she could buy the children clothes and a few luxuries. The family had bought the car recently to drive to Winnipeg for a relative's wedding June 30.

Treated in hospital for bruises were Ray Skelly, 21, Ray Yule, 21; Winston McRae, 21, and Rafael Joliet, 18, all nearby residents, all occupants of the second car.

Former Students To Honor Teacher

A Grade 1 teacher at Quadra Primary School will be guest of honor at an "at home" at the school June 13.

German Officer Kills American

DACHAU (AP)—West German police said one of their officers shot and killed an American soldier in self-defence here. The police report said several American soldiers tried to break into a restaurant.

And former pupils and colleagues of Miss Victoria Lemmex are invited to attend. Miss Lemmex was appointed to Quadra School 39 years ago and since then an estimated 5,320 pupils have been under her tutelage.

She will retire at the end of this year and it is hoped as many of her former students as possible will attend the reunion from 7 to 9 p.m.

To facilitate catering arrangements, those who plan to attend should phone EV 2-3489 or EV 4-2314, or write to B. H. Wheatcroft, 1018 Bay Street.

Women Fire-Fighters 'Just as Good as Men'

CALGARY (CP)—Fire Chief Andy O'Toole of nearby Bowness says women are just as good fire-fighters as men despite their "physical deficiencies."

"I wouldn't mind heading a woman's fire brigade anytime," he said Wednesday.

"They seem to me to have a greater sense of responsibility than men and are more enthusiastic by far," said Chief O'Toole.

Dr. Cameron Elected Moderator

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Ross K. Cameron of Toronto was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Wednesday night, at the church's 88th general assembly.

Dr. Cameron, 57, a native of Stratford, Ont., served as minister for 22 years at Toronto's Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church.

About 250 commissioners from 48 presbyteries across Canada gave him a clear majority on the first ballot over the only other nominee, Rev. G. Deane Johnston of Brantford, Ont.

Wordy Lover Loses

TORONTO (UPI)—A prominent Hamilton surgeon may appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada regarding the price set on his love letters to a Hamilton steelworker's wife.

Herbert Freshmen, lawyer for John Lacroix, said Wednesday he was considering an appeal following the Ontario Appeal Court's dismissal of the surgeon's case.

CUT BY $5,000
The Ontario court, while rejecting Lacroix's appeal, reduced by $5,000 the $18,000 lower court award to steelworker Otto Langer.

The court upheld a $10,000 award for "mental strain" to Langer and $3,000 for the embarrassment caused by his wife's illicit relationship with the surgeon.

FOR ALIENATION
It quashed the $5,000 award for alienation of affections. In April, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled an alienation of affection suit must be accompanied by a criminal offence in Ontario.

'Aunt Em' Settles In

Warmth of friendship and companionship for Victoria's senior citizens flocking to the Salvation Army's Matron Lodge has brought joy to such people as 87-year-old "Aunt Em" Pearson seen here being greeted by Brig. and Mrs. Victor C. Underhill.—(Robin Clarke photo.)

"Aunt Em," one of the 40 guests who have already moved into their new home, could have cried with joy when she saw the modern new furnishings and built-in dresser in her single room. The lodge, which can accommodate 143 elderly men and women, also has 10 two-room suites for married couples.

"Aunt Em," who likes her cup of afternoon tea, had no trouble cementing new friendships with fellow Lodge companions Miss Louise Richardson and J. W. Campbell in the dining room which overlooks the entrance to Victoria Harbor. All agree — the meals are excellent.

Medicare Debate

Doctors Fear Controls

EDMONTON (CP)—Dr. G. K. Higgins of Calgary said Wednesday compulsory medical care insurance plans destroy individual freedom when forced upon unwilling doctors.

He said it would be impossible to have a medical care plan financed by government funds that did not give the government too much control of doctors. The government would control the doctors' wages—their livelihood.

Dr. Higgins, president of the Alberta Society of Specialists in Internal Medicine, and Edmonton lawyer Michael O'Byrne took part in a panel discussion at the annual convention of the Canadian Hospitals Association.

Mr. O'Byrne said implementation of compulsory medical care plans was an inevitable result of the growing trend in the West of democracies toward welfare states.

Flash Fire Destroys City Home

Michael Bean, 20 months, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital for observation after a fire that exploded through his home at 1417 Camosun, about 3 a.m. yesterday.

His mother, Mrs. Thelma Bean, carried him out of his upstairs bedroom after a basement lodger, Albert Lundgren, had given the alarm.

They roused Daryl, 6, and hurried him out of the house.

TOTAL LOSS

House and most of the contents were a total loss. Faulty wiring is blamed for the blaze.

Michael became ill from inhaling smoke, but a hospital spokesman said he was in good condition.

"I feel as though I had been gassed," said Mrs. Bean, now staying with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Alexander, 3356 Oak.

HEARD DOG

She lost most of her household effects, except for some clothes. Loss was covered by insurance. Downstairs, Mr. Lundgren lost all his belongings except his night clothes and a charred wallet containing $65.

Across the street, neighbor Barney Trimble had his attention drawn to the fire by the whining and yelping of his six-year-old collie, Bobby.

He looked out to see the Bean house in flames. He turned in an alarm and raced across the street to help.

The day before the fire, Mrs. Bean's husband, Arthur, had sailed from Vancouver as a crewman aboard the Island Tug and Barge vessel Lloyd B. Gore, for a week's voyage.

'Piano Mania' Blamed For String Troubles

REGINA (CP)—Dr. Boyd has worried the music world. Neel, dean of music at the University of Toronto, says "piano mania" can be blamed for the modern decline in interest in string instruments.

Dr. Neel said the problem has been around for many years and appears to be worst in North America. This is particularly true in Canada with its expanding cities and cultural activities, he said.

We'll Forget Charges Says Hillcrest

DUNCAN—Hillcrest Lumber Co. officials hope the deadlocked five-month-old free bus dispute will be settled temporarily after the company agreed yesterday not to lay legal charges against the IWA's local 1-80 and its president, Weldon Jubenville.

A few weeks ago a Labor Relations Board ruling gave Hillcrest permission to prosecute the local and Mr. Jubenville for violating the master agreement.

B.C. Prices On Liquor Unchanged

There will be no immediate rise in prices of liquor in B.C. liquor control board chairman Col. Donald McGugan said last night.

He was commenting on a statement that Alberta liquor prices will rise later this year if the Canadian dollar remains devaluated.

NOT RIGHT NOW
This was stated in Edmonton yesterday by Peter Elliott, Alberta liquor control board chairman.

"We are not going to raise our prices right now," said Col. McGugan.

Long Beach Camps Open

TOFINO—Work has been completed for the summer on Construction at Long Beach's Green Point Park. 50 campsites and 12 picnic sites were ready for visitors at the beginning of this month.

Later the provincial parks department plans to add another 30 campsites to the area.

Grant Will Help Form City Junior Symphony

A $500 grant from the Koerner Foundation of Vancouver will help finance a proposed junior symphony orchestra in Victoria.

Symphony society director Jack Barracough said yesterday the grant will go towards "creation of a group of musicians who, we hope, will join the senior symphony orchestra."

It is hoped that the junior symphony will fill the gap which now exists between the time a young musician leaves high school and the time he is ready for the senior orchestra.

Mr. Barracough said the junior symphony would be open to others besides young players, so long as the high standards of entrance can be met.

The foundation has also announced a $500 grant to St. Margaret's school library.

Dr. Ralph E. Adams, who took up position June 1. He formerly worked in Chicago as assistant secretary to the council on medical education and hospitals of American Medical Association.

Now Hillcrest loggers will vote on a new proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, including the promise that no charges will be laid and one bus from Duncan to Meachie Lake will be reinstated.

Ordered and supervised by the provincial government, the vote will be taken Friday afternoon at the Duncan Court-house.

EXTRA 230 MEN
The company had announced the main mill would close June 15 because the dispute has caused the complete depletion of the log stockpile. The shut-down of the gang mill at the beginning of this month threw 40 men out of work and an additional 230 men would become jobless in the main mill.

A recent suggestion from Mr. Sands following a high level talk at Vancouver last week, only provided one bus for loggers from Duncan until September when a permanent settlement is anticipated.

TURNED DOWN
This proposal was turned down by 150 members of the local at a meeting last Friday.

Regional president Jack Moore was asked to ask for reinstatement of the two buses which took Hillcrest loggers to work from Duncan and Lake Cowichan before January.

ALSO DEMANDED
The membership at that meeting also demanded legal charges against Mr. Jubenville and the local be dropped.

The bus dispute arose at the beginning of this year after Hillcrest withdrew a 20-year-old free transportation service from Duncan and Lake Cowichan to Meachie Lake and the 70 loggers involved refused to provide their own transportation.

'Good Citizen' Pays For Striking Boy

A 60-year-old Sunday school superintendent was found guilty yesterday of knocking down a teen-aged boy and splitting his lip because the boy had dropped a banana peel near his house.

Joseph J. Haegert, 1316 Pembroke, retired wireless operator from the hydrographic survey vessel William J. Stewart, was bound over on his own recognizances in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

"I'm satisfied that you are a good citizen, that you are a truthful man and of good character," said Magistrate William Ostler.

"I'm satisfied that you are unwell, and that is one of the things that caused this to occur."

"It's not your right to instruct other people's children in good manners or good citizenship. Nor do you have the right to punish them."

"Because your family has (high) standards... you do not have the right to impose those standards on other people's children."

"When these matters occur, the thing to do is notify the authorities. It is not possible for the court to agree with your taking matters into your hands."

People who littered the streets could be prosecuted, the magistrate pointed out.

Haegert, called to the witness stand by his defence counsel, R. J. E. Taylor, said that when children threw trash on the street near his house, he made a habit of gathering it up and burning it once a day.

The boy who lodged the complaint, who passed by Haegert's house each day travelling to and from school, ate a banana and threw the skin down outside his house.

As Haegert was going out to pick up the peel, his own teen-aged son asked: "Dad, why don't you make the boy pick it up?"

Haegert answered: "I can't help it if he doesn't know any better."

On the next school day, Haegert testified, the boy appeared outside his gate, took a banana from his pocket, and began eating it.

"I never saw anyone eat a banana so slowly. He just seemed to be sucking on it, and looking at me with the most insolent, rotten look. Very upsetting."

Then he threw down the banana peel beside the road. "I said to him in a very loud voice, 'That's a dirty thing to do.' I said, 'I picked up the banana peel last Friday when you dropped it. I think you should pick it up and put it in my garbage can.'"

"He gave me the most murderous look I have ever seen. I hit him before I knew it. It was the same sort of thing as putting the brakes on a car. It was almost like seeing a rattlesnake or anything else that was a threat to my life."

The boy had been joined by another boy.

"The other boy burst out with a torrent of abuse: 'You're going to jail—anyone who hits a teen-ager goes to jail. You're only a bunch of foreigners anyway.'"

"Your Honor," said Haegert, "I'm British-born and I have five medals from the last war."

The teen-ager was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital emergency ward, where six stitches were needed to close a rut on his lip.

Haegert later apologized to the boy and his mother, insisting.

Olga Jardine Chosen For B.C.

The past president of the Victoria Women's Canadian Club, Dr. Olga Jardine, was elected recently to represent B.C. on the national executive of the Association of Canadian Clubs.

The election was held at the biennial convention of the association in Toronto attended by 125 delegates from across Canada.

LOCAL DELEGATIONS

Victoria delegates at the convention were H. A. Powell, honorary secretary of the Men's Canadian Club, and Mrs. F. M. Corbett, president of the Women's Canadian Club.

Next convention of the association will take place at Charlottetown in 1964 during the centenary of the famous conference which laid the grounds for Confederation.

Quality Work Answer In Cold War

Quality products produced by a "strong, proud, hard-working labor force" will keep the West on top in the cold war.

This was the opinion expressed recently to the 1962 graduating class of North Sea Secondary School by Dr. C. L. Lamberton, associate professor of English at Victoria University.

IN THE MAKING

He said he could not foresee a nuclear war—but a trade war with quality production and price-cutting as the bullets is already in the making between the East and West.

He said a well-planned program of toll, either by hand or brain, would bring not only material rewards but also a great inner satisfaction.

The 26 Grade 12 students followed the ceremony with a graduation dance sponsored by the North Saanich PTA.

Engineers Conclude Wage Case

Final arguments of B.C. government engineers and the Civil Service Commission in a wage dispute were heard by a board of reference at the Victoria Courthouse yesterday.

The engineers are seeking greater wage boosts than those granted by the commission earlier this year.

Decision of the board, headed by Dean H. F. Angus of the Public Utilities Commission, will be announced later.

Public Angered By Increase In Gas Prices

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Imperial Oil, the company which raised its price of crude oil in Canada by 10 cents a barrel following the pegging of the dollar, was last night still holding the line on its gasoline prices.

Two of its main rivals, B.A. Oil Company and Texaco Canada Ltd., earlier in the day had increased their tank-wagon prices by 7 cents a gallon, and most of the service stations in the Victoria area were also marking up the retail prices. An Imperial Oil spokesman yesterday said that his firm was studying the situation carefully and had not yet reached a decision to change its existing rates.

Also holding back to see what happens were Shell Oil Company of Canada and Standard Oil of B.C.

Declined at First

Early in May Imperial Oil announced that to keep the price of crude oil in line with the new value of the Canadian dollar it would increase its wellhead price an average of 10 cents a barrel at most Western Canadian fields.

The company did not suggest that the new price of crude would necessitate an increase in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products, but was merely a matter of keeping the export price of crude in line with existing levels. Other Canadian refiners and distributors, which do not have such large crude oil production as Imperial, declined at first to pay the 10 cents a barrel extra tariff for crude oil, but were later compelled to do so by producers who declined to sell to them at the lower levels.

When forced into paying the extra wellhead price these companies issued warnings they would also be forced to consider an increase in their product prices.

The business community hailed the move by the oil companies as an attempt to start another bout of inflation.

Government Action?

Imperial Oil, which touched off the present trouble by raising the crude price, came in for most of the criticism, although the action of B.A. Oil and Texaco of Canada in taking the lead on raising retail prices also came in for scathing comment from gasoline users.

One typical comment was: "We are told that every gallon of gas we put into our car is a Canadian product—out of a Canadian well; transported through an all-Canadian pipeline system; processed in Canadian refineries and sold by Canadian distributors. I cannot see why the change in value of the Canadian dollar in any way should influence the price of an all-Canadian product sold in the domestic market."

Another comment was: "The government should take action against such flagrant profiteering resulting from a government move aimed to improve the trading position of the country. The oil companies should be allowed to charge what they like for what they export, but they should not be allowed to change their domestic prices."

Another expressed the view that the international oil companies operated a cartel arrangement, and that the only way it could be broken was for the government to control petroleum prices.

He advocated that the B.C. government should reinstitute its control of petroleum product prices abandoned 10 years ago.

Up Three Cents

Winnipeg Pays More for Gas

WINNIPEG (CP)—The price of gasoline sold by British American Oil Company outlets in the Winnipeg area rose three cents a gallon the company announced Wednesday.

The increase follows a similar rise announced Tuesday by North Star division of Shell Oil Company.

The increase brings the price of premium gasoline sold by the two companies to 44.9 cents a gallon from 41.9.

Regular grade gasoline increases in price to 39.9 cents a gallon from 36.9 cents.

Texaco of Canada Limited and Imperial Oil Company Limited spokesmen said their price structure still was under review.

Independent companies in Winnipeg, which sell their gasoline two cents a gallon cheaper, have said they will not increase prices until all other companies have done so.

Date Set For Estes Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John McClellan's senate investigating subcommittee will open its long-awaited public hearings into the Billy Sol Estes case on June 27, and the bankrupt Texan himself may be a star witness.

McClellan (D-Ark.) a veteran of famous senate investigations, announced yesterday that the massive hearings "will continue possibly for several weeks."

English School Ban Demanded in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal recommended Wednesday that English-speaking schools be abolished in Quebec and replaced by bilingual schools.

The society said in a brief to the Quebec royal commission on education that English-speaking children should attend schools in which both French and English are used as languages of instruction.

The French-language lay movement presented a brief asking for immediate establishment of a network of such schools.

Edouard Minville, chairman of the society's education committee, said bilingual schools cannot be set up immediately but should be considered a necessary goal for the English-speaking population.

"Do you think this is just?" asked commission member Prof. Rocher of this university of Montreal. "Either in Quebec or elsewhere?"

"Yes," said Mr. Minville. "people living in a given milieu should speak the language of that milieu."

Farmers' Crops Covered

OTTAWA (CP)—The province of Saskatchewan and the federal government have signed an agreement to provide crop insurance to 1,350 farmers, the agriculture department announced Wednesday.

Under the agreement the federal government pays 20 per cent of the individual premiums, the farmer pays an average of 74 per cent of the coverage provided and the provincial government pays the balance.

The federal-provincial crop insurance scheme was inaugurated last year in Saskatchewan on a trial basis.

Fees for National Parks Being Studied in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is reviewing the question of admission charges to Canada's national parks.

An official of the national resources department said Wednesday the entire admission fee structure is being studied thoroughly. Any decision made would likely be announced within a month.

One of the principal topics under review involves the possibility of charges to Mount Revelstoke and Glacier National parks in British Columbia.

Barilko Mystery Solved

TORONTO (CP) — The skeletons of hockey star Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson were found Wednesday in an 11-year-old plane wreckage north of Cochrane, Lands and Forests Minister J. W. Spooner said Wednesday night.

PONTON PLANE

Mr. Spooner said members of his staff had identified the wreckage as the yellow Fairchild 24 pontoon plane which disappeared with the two men aboard on a flight from Rupert's House to Timmins Aug. 26, 1951.

Part of the plane's registration number—CFXT—was still visible.

OLD MYSTERY

The discovery in the Northern Ontario bushland ended one of Canada's longest-standing aviation mysteries.

A helicopter crew of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, who spotted the glint of metal in scrubby wilderness, led searchers to the wreck about 45 air miles north of here.

CONFIRMS IDENTITY

Mr. Spooner said there could be no doubt the remains were those of the former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star and his fishing companion, a Timmins dentist.

Suspicion grew that the mystery was near an end when helicopter pilot Gary Fields first detected the gleaming wreckage last Thursday.

FOUND AGAIN

It was Fields who found the wreck again Wednesday.

He succeeded where all previous searches failed. The original search, perhaps the most massive in Canadian history, had cost more than $250,000 and involved 1,345 hours of flying by 17 RCAF aircraft.

The incident prompted the lands and forests department to close 100,000 square miles of hinterland to non-resident fishermen and hunters.

Flag for D-Day

Victorians remembered night when Sergeants Leonard Hamilton, left and Fred Barker lowered the flag at special D-Day sunset ceremony performed by Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on legislative buildings lawn. More than 2,000 persons witnessed colorful ceremony in which Col. the Hon. R. W. Mayhew placed a wreath on cenotaph on behalf of all ranks. — (Colonist photo.)

'Everything Private Enterprise'

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Government-owned corporations should be given back to private control, Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Wednesday.

Speaking at a Social Credit rally here, Mr. Bennett said a Social Credit Government would let the CBC, TCA and the CNR stand on their own financial feet.

The Social Credit premier also said that if his party formed the federal government, it would pay off the country's debt and operate on a balanced budget.

Nation Must Like Flag

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that "all parts" of Canada must approve the "symbols of our sovereignty," a national flag and a Canadian anthem.

He said that unity cannot exist without a general acceptance of the symbols in all provinces.

MAJOR POINT

The issue of the flag and the anthem—a major election point in nationalistic Quebec—was raised at Roberval, Que., during the prime minister's day-long campaign tour of the Lake St. John area of northeastern Quebec.

Said Dr. Gaston Brassard, welcoming the prime minister to Roberval:

"It would have been a better welcome with an official national anthem and with a real Canadian flag."

TROIS TREMBLAYS

After meeting three men, all with the name of Tremblay, at St. Bruno, the prime minister held up three fingers and said: "Ah, quatre Tremblays, Non, trois Tremblays."

At Alma, he ran into a bunch of Gagnes and said: "Bonne nuit Gagnes." Everyone chuckled.

Europeans Favor British Solution To Market 'Key'

PARIS (Reuters) — The seven-nation Western European Union Wednesday adopted a British recommendation for solving Commonwealth problems in European Common Market negotiations.

The union links Britain and the six Common Market countries—France, Italy, West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The recommendation said:

1. "Exceptional provisions" should be worked out to cover a transitional period in favor of imported Commonwealth foodstuffs, especially from the temperate zones (Canada, Australia and New Zealand).

2. After this transitional period there should be product-by-product negotiations of tariff agreements "taking into account the world commodity agreements for foodstuffs which will be sought" by the market.

These points were part of an amendment proposed Tuesday

Earlier, the assembly recorded its preference for an integrated "democratic union of the peoples of Europe" instead of the inter-government "union of states" favored by France.

Full Medicare 'On the Way'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Malcolm Taylor, principal of the University of Alberta, said Wednesday a complete public health program for Canadians is on the way and dentists will eventually be part of it.

Dr. Taylor told 1,000 delegates to the national convention of the Canadian Dental Association:

MYOPIC VIEWS

"I believe dentists and other professions will rise above the petty irritations, the unwarranted fears, the cries of alarmists and those with myopic views.

"I believe the health professions will see today a great and unprecedented opportunity to provide improved standards of health care."

MORE MONEY

Dr. Taylor said Canadians have come to the conclusion it was time to spend more money and to establish or expand organizational arrangements to make a higher quality of health services more readily available for everybody.

"Will the professions meet this challenge negatively, as if they were fighting a rearguard action to preserve ancient privilege?" he asked.

Andy Andras, Canadian Labor Congress director of personnel relations, said some form of public health program is inevitable.

40 Killed Since Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — East German border guards have shot and killed at least 40 refugees trying to escape to the west since the Communist Berlin wall went up last August, all-German affairs minister Ernest Lemmer announced Wednesday.

Seven Years For Nazi

VERDEN, West Germany (Reuters) — Heinrich Wessel, 57-year-old former adjutant of Sachsenhausen Nazi concentration camp, was sentenced Wednesday to seven years at hard labor for aiding in the murder of 16 persons and the manslaughter of one. He has been under arrest for more than two years, which will be deducted from the sentence.

Over the Wall

BERLIN (Reuters) — An East German border guard climbed the East-West border wall and fled into West Berlin Tuesday night, police reported Wednesday. Shots were heard at two different parts of the border and at another point a man, woman and child climbed the wall in the opposite direction into East Berlin.

Nations Agree On Whaling

LONDON (AP) — Five nations Wednesday signed a four-season agreement sharing the permitted whaling catch in the Antarctic Ocean. The accord binds the five—Britain, Japan, Russia, Norway and Holland—to respect the limits of annual catches allowed by the International Whaling Commission and sets forth the percentages of the total catch allotted to each country.

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — A sharp earthquake jolted Ukiah shortly before 11 a.m. Wednesday. There was no report of damage.

New Depot Rejects Bad Meat

In two days of operation, the new meat inspection depot in Victoria has discovered and rejected three beef livers, two lamb livers and one pig heart as unfit for human consumption.

Veterinary inspector Dr. D. W. Gaunt said last night the meat was rejected Tuesday and yesterday. The inspection service was initiated after the recent discovery of abcessed liver in a local butcher shop.

No meat was condemned Monday, the first day of the inspection service.

AT CITY SCALES

The inspection depot, at the city scales on Store Street, is open between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. and Dr. Gaunt has started visiting local slaughterhouses for inspections on the spot.

Inspections at the depot mean the freshly-slaughtered meat must be trucked to the city scales.

SAANICH SURVEY

Meanwhile, a survey of Saanich butchers shows little change in business since inspection started in the three other local municipalities.

One meat market reported a slight increase in business while another said sales of liver had dropped considerably.

SAME AS USUAL

The rest said business was the same as usual.

Lake Hill Food Market reported the slight increase but said it probably didn't indicate anything significant.

Liver sales dropped at Wilson's Quality Meats.

GREAT INCREASE

"But other meat sales are still the same," said a spokesman, who reported a great increase in the number of customers asking if meat was inspected.

Sales were "holding up the same" at Ken's Low Cost. "Business is very good."

NO DIFFERENCE

Other markets noticed no difference.

All but 15 per cent of the meat sold in markets has already been inspected and carries the "Canada Approved" stamp.

A "B.C. Passed" stamp will go onto all carcasses inspected at the Victoria depot.

Poland Cold

Rains Stop At Last

WARSAW (AP) — Hard hit by more than five straight weeks of rain, Poland Wednesday had a mixture of floods, sunshine and cold winds.

Rains finally stopped in most parts of the country, but continued cold temperatures prevented any immediate drying out of perhaps 200,000 acres of cropland under water.

SIX PROVINCES

Newspapers said six of the country's 17 provinces were still under flood warnings.

Temperatures were in the 40s in most of Poland.

Warsaw was warned that the Vistula River would crest this weekend at perhaps 19½ feet, more than two feet above flood level.

The Oder River in western Poland, which burst its banks last weekend, was reported receding. News reports told of damage to crops.

Flood Victims Besiege Supermarket

WARSAW (Reuters) — One woman broke a leg and a door was torn off its steel hinges as 7,000 shoppers besieged Warsaw's first supermarket when it opened Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the city thousands of housewives, fearing price increases following large-scale flooding in Poland and rising meat and butter costs in Russia, lined up from early morning to buy stocks of flour, sugar, macaroni and potatoes at state food stores.

'Untouchable' President

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India's ruling Congress Party Wednesday elected 41-year-old D. Sanjayvaia president of the party—the first member of the "untouchable" caste to receive the honor.

Queen Mother One of Crowd

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth II flies to Montreal today to begin a 10-day visit to Canada.

She will be with about 100 other passengers on a scheduled flight of Trans-Canada Air Lines, the first time she has ever travelled on a commercial airliner with other passengers.

The first-class section of the DC-8 airliner will be reserved for the Queen Mother and 10 of her party of 16.

She will be greeted on her arrival at Dorval airport by Governor-General Georges Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Quebec officials.

Her principal engagements are concerned with the centenary celebrations in Montreal of The Black Watch, the Royal Highland Regiment of Canada of which she is colonel-in-chief.

She is due in Toronto June 16 to attend the Queen's Plate horse race.

It is the Queen Mother's third trip to Canada. The first, as Queen and accompanied by King George VI, was in 1939, the second, as Queen Mother, was in 1954.

Labor Captures Key British Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — The five candidate Bernard Connelley with 12,825. The Liberal stock with voters took a fresh plunge in a byelection Wednesday when the opposition Labor party captured the parliamentary seat of Middlesbrough West, formerly held by a Conservative.

Labor won the election district with a margin of 2,270 votes in a field of five candidates.

Winning candidate Dr. Jeremy Bray led the field with 15,085 votes followed by Conserva-

The Conservatives won the seat in the 1959 national election with a comfortable margin of more than 8,000 votes.

The verdict underlined the long chapter of government by-election reverses during the last nine months which has coincided with an upsurge of Britain's middle-of-the-road Lib-

Economic Summit

Tighten Belt Red Order

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Top Communist leaders from seven European countries began "economic summit" meeting here Wednesday.

Forecasts from Communist and Western sources said these topics would likely be on the agenda for the meeting of "Comecon," the Soviet bloc's council for economic aid.

1. A Communist counterblast to the Western European Common Market, including a re-statement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call last week for the formation of a worldwide "non-discriminatory" trade organization.

2. The drafting of a "tighten your belt" program for the Communist countries, dictated by a decision to try to keep ahead of the United States in the nuclear and rocket arms race.

3. Further consideration of the already launched co-ordination of 20-year plans of Communist countries.

Big Oil Area Target Of Rival Bid

CALGARY (CP) — Plans for a $250,000,000 project to produce oil from the Athabasca sands were disclosed Wednesday by a group of companies known as Cities Service Athabasca Inc.

The announcement came as a surprise at a hearing being held by the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board into a bid by Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. of New York for the right to develop what is believed to be one of the largest oil reserves in the world.

The Cities Service group, which includes Imperial Oil Ltd., Richardson Oil Corporation and Royalite Oil Co. Ltd., was expected to be the only rival to Great Canadian's proposal. No date has been set for that hearing.

Junior Criminals Hit Even Police

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (AP)

A junior crime wave of adult proportions was reported by Woonsocket police to have been solved Wednesday with the arrests of three youths, 13 to 14 years old. They were alleged to have committed 72 thefts and acts of vandalism in which losses totalled thousands of dollars.

As the youths were being led from the police station, after questioning, in he taken to family court, a policeman noticed a bulge in one of the boy's pockets.

Out came a small transistor radio belonging to one of the sergeants who had questioned the boy.

New Life in Commonwealth—Philip

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh says he believes his Second Commonwealth Study Conference which ended here Wednesday has given "great many people a new idea of the meaning of the British Commonwealth."

Prince Philip, president of the conference, told the 300 delegates at the closing session of the 25-day study:

"If this conference has done nothing else, it has brought a new life and a new meaning to the Commonwealth idea to a great many people."

The duke addressed the delegates after three days of intensive study here of matters gathered in three weeks of travelling across Canada. Delegates viewed Canadian communities and industry in an effort to learn of the "human consequences of the changing industrial environment."

This was the theme of the conference which began in Montreal May 13, and Prince

Philip said he believes Canada gave the delegates a broad insight into this subject.

The conference had opportunity to study practically every industrial community problem which Canada had to offer.

"You have seen good and encouraging things as well as bad and depressing things," he said. "Perhaps the most important, you have seen that a high standard of living does not insulate communities from the harsh problems of industrialization, which are experienced in every part of the Commonwealth."

But your effect upon each other has been just as rewarding.

"It is quite obvious to me that all of you realize now, probably better than ever before, that you have all got something that you can all help each other and that a great sense of comradeship can

We'll Forget Charges Says Hillcrest

DUNCAN—Hillcrest Lumber Co. officials hope the deadlocked five-month-old free bus dispute will be settled temporarily after the company agreed yesterday not to lay legal charges against the IWA's local 1-80 and its president, Weldon Jubenville.

Getgood Conducts

NANAIMO—Long search for a replacement for Maurice Kushner as musical director of the Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra has ended with appointment of John Getgood of Yellow Point.

Mr. Getgood is well known here for his activities in another field of artistic endeavor, through his association with the Yellow Point Drama Group. Annual meeting of the Symphony Society will be held today at 8 p.m.

Highway Gaining Priority

DUNCAN—Reconstruction of the Lake Cowichan road has climbed high on the priority list of the department of highways and in all probability will be done next year, a delegation of the local Chamber of Commerce was told by highway officials recently.

For the past several years the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has been pressing to have the treacherous highway to the lake straightened, particularly in the Sahliam area, or to have a road diversion eliminating railroad crossings at Sahliam and Tansor.

The more direct route to the north of the E & N railroad tracks also would relieve the present 18-mile highway of some of the heavy traffic. Spokesmen from the local chamber, chairman Ed Good and Bert Gray, presented a detailed brief to H. T. Mair, deputy minister, and his assistant, D. R. McLeod, recently killed in an airplane crash.

Long Beach Camps Open

TOFINO—Work has been completed for the summer on construction at Long Beach's Green Point Park, 60 camp sites and 12 picnic sites were ready for visitors at the beginning of this month.

Later the provincial parks department plans to add another 30 campsites to the area.

A few weeks ago a Labor Relations Board ruling gave Hillcrest permission to prosecute the local and Mr. Jubenville for violating the master agreement.

VOTE FRIDAY

Now Hillcrest loggers will vote on a new proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, including the promise that no charges will be laid and one bus from Duncan to Mesachie Lake will be reinstated.

Ordered and supervised by the provincial government, the vote will be taken Friday afternoon at the Duncan Court-house.

EXTRA 230 MEN

The company had announced the main mill would close June 15 because the dispute has caused the complete depletion of the log stockpile. The shut-down of the gang mill at the beginning of this month threw 40 men out of work and an additional 230 men would become jobless in the main mill.

A recent suggestion from Mr. Sands following a high level talk at Vancouver last week, only provided one bus for loggers from Duncan until September when a permanent settlement is anticipated.

TURNED DOWN

This proposal was turned down by 150 members of the local at a meeting last Friday.

Regional president Jack Moore was advised to ask for reinstatement of the two buses which took Hillcrest loggers to work from Duncan and Lake Cowichan before January.

ALSO DEMANDED

The membership at that meeting also demanded legal charges against Mr. Jubenville and the local be dropped.

The bus dispute arose at the beginning of this year after Hillcrest withdrew a 20-year-old free transportation service from Duncan and Lake Cowichan to Mesachie Lake and the 70 loggers involved refused to provide their own transportation.

Hall Allows Own Police For Tofino

TOFINO—Tofino's new Municipal Building is now open, providing a "home" for the municipal office, the fire hall, library, and a police station and office.

Now, for the first time, Tofino has its own police officer—Cpl. Ian Smith, RCMP, transferred from Chemainus.

Previously all police work in this area was handled by the RCMP detachment at Ucluelet—a fact providing many problems due to the area involved and the distances which must be travelled.

Cpl. William Steen, for some time in charge of the RCMP detachment at Ucluelet, has been transferred to Burnaby. He has been succeeded by Const. John Wiegert, formerly of the Duncan detachment.

Nanaimo Event

VON Lunch Lesson In Harmony

NANAIMO—Annual VON International luncheon at the Plaza today provides an object lesson in co-operation among groups of many origins.

COMPLETE HARMONY

Originated 10 years ago by the Nanaimo Council of Women, the affair brings together 22 women's organizations including pensioners, national groups and representatives of many political and religious beliefs.

Complete harmony and almost miraculous success have resulted.

HELP SERVICES

Proceeds will help finance services of the Victorian Order of Nurses board, which not only administers VON nursing services but has been expanded to include a homemaker service in the Nanaimo, Harewood and Departure Bay areas.

SEVERAL DISHES

The luncheon, which takes place today from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Plaza Ballroom (loaned for the occasion), features a smorgasbord-type presentation of a wide variety of special national dishes, each served by women dressed in their traditional national costumes.

All the food is donated and prepared by the various groups.

At least 1,200 people are expected to attend the affair, knowing they will find an exceptional luncheon at a cost of $1.

Motel Manirate

Should Sue City Says Ash Victim

City council should be sued for dereliction of duty over Victoria's smoke and fly ash problem, an irate motel operator said last night.

"They've just been completely laggardly," said L. E. Todd, managing director of the Windsor Motor Court.

"I think somebody is afraid of the mills or the operators," he said. "I don't want to become involved in any lawsuits, but by golly, it looks like it is going to have to come to that."

JUST DISGUSTED

"I think the ones who should be in court are the council, for dereliction of duty."

"I am just disgusted with the whole thing."

Mr. Todd bitterly criticized the city's smoke advisory committee which last week decided to investigate before launching prosecutions.

GUESTS LOST

"Those characters that are on the committee, that was just another big stall they pulled the other day."

"I have lost three guests in one morning because of this. They came out and their cars were just covered with that black ash," he said.

INTO UPOLSTERY

"One had a white Lincoln Continental and the ash had even infiltrated into his upholstery."

"Our pool, that's really something! I have seen it on that pool that you couldn't put your hand down on water that was not covered with ash."

DUMP GARBAGE

"If I had all my guests go and dump their garbage on the properties of the offenders they would certainly take action," said Mr. Todd.

"There is no material difference whatsoever in the situation—it is all refuse. Ash is the refuse that occurs in their line of business."

John A. Ross, resident manager of the Tally Ho Travel Lodge, added:

FURNITURE PROBLEM

"I can't keep any pool clean. I am continually skimming it. My rugs are filthy, smoke gets in the rooms, the patio is filthy and I cannot put furniture on the patio because of the fallout."

"It is something awful."

"What with smoke and fly ash, a lot of people are leaving with a pretty dim view of beautiful Victoria."

Lee Wing Ting and bride.

Chinese Bride In City at Last

A wrangle involving a federal cabinet minister, the Canadian immigration department's Hong Kong office and a Victoria legal firm came to a happy conclusion yesterday as Chinese-Canadian Lee Wing Ting's wife set foot on her adopted land.

Her arrival in Victoria spells final victory for Mr. Lee, who began the battle to get his wife into the country almost two months ago.

CERTAIN MATTERS

He married attractive, Chinese-born Ma Man Wah in Hong Kong last fall.

When the time came to return to Canada, Mr. Lee was allowed to return home but was informed his wife could not enter the country until he had "cleared up certain matters concerning his identity."

When Mr. Lee arrived home alone, his angry father, Lee Loy Yick, took the problem to Victoria lawyer David Hummel.

A blizzard of letters between the legal firm and the department of citizenship and immigration resulted in the department reversing its stand and Mrs. Lee was allowed entry into Canada.

IS DELIGHTED

Though still feeling the effects of her long journey from Hong Kong, Mrs. Lee is delighted with her new home.

"We're very happy it's all over," Mr. Lee said from his home at 807 Kings Road yesterday as the diminutive Mrs. Lee stood happily beside him.

Sun Hasn't Sunk Yet On Amazing Victoria

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

ODD BIRDS: The recent move here by the B.C. recreation and conservation department's fish and game branch from Vancouver has led to the staff conducting a comprehensive "nature study" of the typical Victoria native and his habitat.

Results of the study are contained in the staff bulletin of the branch—a copy of which has found its way to our desk.

Seems there is a "whale" of a difference between Victoria and Vancouver.

For instance:

"Never saw so many cigarette smokers before. Everyone seems to smoke the things."

"Victoria is quite a place for the men to wear sports blazers (many blue) with some insignia or other upon it. Many of these are the usual Legion crest. Almost every other man seems to be so dressed."

"Streets are so narrow in Victoria it is a wonder there are not more accidents. Maybe people drive more slowly and carefully. A real hazard is caused by a parked car opening the driver's door into the stream of traffic. Driving space on the inside lane is so narrow that there is no way to avoid hitting the opened door. Yet you hear of few such mishaps."

But perhaps the most amazing conclusions of the anonymous investigator are the opinions of our femme fatales:

"Victoria seems filled with a great number of lovely young girls of the high school age. All young women of this group are lovely in their youth, the firmness of their young bodies and brightness of their smiles."

"The city holds, too, a large population of ladies of indeterminate age—somewhere between 20 and 35 years. These seem to be of many different types, varying from the 'honey' type of Old Country woman, a little strident, quite efficient thank you and obviously capable of commanding any situation which confronted them, from facing isolation with the tribesmen of the Central Kalahari to unarméd combat with well-trained marines."

"There are many other types of ladies in the age group who seem to float vaguely around the social scene here... Research is continuing!"

That's nice to know!

SELF-SERVICE: As most everyone knows B.C. licence plates are stamped out by inmates of our prisons.

Some time ago, when the new plates were being distributed, a government agent in the Interior was amazed to find he had been sent blank plates.

A small brush was attached and a note read:

"Do it yourself."

COLD CUT: Friend of ours, streaming over the boat of coffee prices to 15 cents a cup, was doubly miffed the other day when the java he was served in a restaurant was only lukewarm.

"Was the coffee nice and hot?" asked the cashier as he went to pay his bill.

"No, it wasn't," retorted our friend.

"Okay, it's on the house," smiled the cashier as she declined payment. Maybe she thought he was a tourist.

UPCOMING ORDEAL: It will be lucky if some of our politicians come through the current campaign unscathed.

Liberal leader Lester Pearson, campaigning in Ontario not so long ago, was feted with coffee and doughnuts at stop after stop.

As they left for the next engagement, an aide said:

"What's coming up next?"

"That last doughnut," sighed Mr. Pearson.

REDUCED TO CLEAR: Look for a stepped-up attack on press coverage of the election campaign from both the Tories and the Socialists in the last few days before June 18.

Victoria's Dick Porter says this week's Shrine Circus will be bigger and better than ever.

Australian entertainer Rolf Harris, at the Tañgo Saturday night, has an upcoming appearance on the Ed Sullivan show scheduled.

... Victoria retailers say they can't give the full 7% rebate on U.S. money because they have to pay a couple of cents when they turn the money into the banks.

... Eastern magazines are suddenly taking a great interest in some of Victoria's oddball residents.

INSTANT ITEM: Generally the ones who are always doing the knocking are the ones who can't ring the bell!

It's Bolo Bulinckx

Tortoise Tempest Over

By TED PULFORD

A much-travelled tortoise, touring southern Vancouver Island under the Swiss name of Mikra, has turned out to be nothing more than a hard-shelled impostor.

Her real name, believe it or not, is Bozo Bulinckx and she lives at 3831 Carey in a house full of assorted pets and extremely tolerant human beings.

Least she wander off again, her owners in the Jack Bulinckx family yesterday painted her name and address on the bottom of her shell.

The do-to about tortoises began last Saturday night when young Randy Turncliff found the creature lurking across his front yard at 3840 Rowland.

The Daily Colonist was duly informed and the tortoise's picture was published in the Sunday edition.

When the paper came out, excitement mounted in two separate households.

"It's Mikra," cried Irene Haupt, whose father is proprietor of the Swiss Restaurant in Esquimalt. The family had picked up a tortoise on the edge of the Sahara Desert almost 10 years ago and brought it home to Canada.

"I swear it's Bozo," cried Mrs. J. A. Bulinckx of 3831 Carey Road when she looked at her paper.

By the time Mrs. Bulinckx got around to claiming her wandering tortoise, Bozo was living high off the hog down at the Swiss Restaurant.

A consultation between the two families seemed to establish firmly it wasn't Mikra at all, but Bozo.

Strangely enough, Bozo hails from the same part of the world as the still-missing Mikra. She was picked up in Morocco and given to Mr.

Bulinckx by a visiting sailor almost 10 years ago.

Nor was this the first time the tortoise had taken to the road in search of adventure.

"Bozo hibernates out in the garden every winter," Mrs. Bulinckx said. "Then, when the weather warms up, she comes out of the ground and takes a little trip if we're not there waiting for her."

True to her Moroccan ancestry, Bozo invariably heads in the same direction when she comes out of the ground for the summer.

She strikes off due east.

"Next time she does that, at least we'll get her back from whoever finds her," Mrs. Bulinckx said.

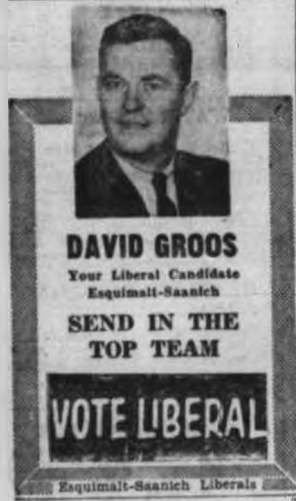

"I painted her name on her tummy."

The whereabouts of Mikra remains a six-year mystery.

Pensioners' Goal: Own Nursing Home

PORT ALBERNI—Old age pensioners of the Alberni are willing to make their contribution toward the nursing home for which they have been pressing for many years. The OAP tag day will be held this Saturday, with the proceeds to go to a nursing home fund.
The local welfare office staff, medical men of the community and city councils have shown interest in the project and land has been reserved as a possible site, following a number of appeals from elderly people of the area. They have contended that those needing nursing care should not be sent away from the valley, far from their families and friends.

PORT ALBERNI—First sod was turned — by bulldozer — yesterday on the site of the new curling and skating rink in Recreation Park. Officiating was Ald. George Folkard.

TOFINO—Roman Catholics of Tofino celebrated mass for the first time last weekend in their own church, still under construction and as yet unfinished.
The building is still a shell, its basement and foundation put in voluntarily last summer by Peter Sullivan of Long Beach, and the rest only outside first wall, first flooring and roof.

Mass was sung by Rev. Father F. Sutherland of the Holy Family Church, Ucluelet, who is also missionary priest for Tofino.
The five-months total precipitation for 1962 was 23.77 inches, while in the same period of 1961 59.97 inches were recorded.
May's sunshine measured up to 172.2 hours and so far this year there has been sunshine for 472.3 hours as compared with 428.9 in the same period of last year.

NANAIMO—Thomas R. Shaw of Nanaimo and Harold A. Duncan of Vancouver have purchased the property of the Nanaimo Golf Club on Wakeham Avenue for a reported sum of $62,000. The area sold is approximately 65 acres. Seventeen acres remaining on the Bowen Road side may possibly be utilized for a city yard, if the application for rezoning by the city is successful.

TOFINO—Graduation exercises for the Ucluelet-Tofino Elementary and Secondary School were held recently in the school gymnasium, with principal Joseph C. Marriott introducing the nine candidates.

Barelay Stuart presented the Chamber of Commerce trophy to Vincent Murray-Brown, who was also valedictorian. Other candidates were George Chisholm, Gordon Chorley, Linda Hillier, Theodor Kimoto, Douglas MacLean, Russell Poltrier, Madie Dodds and Lois Monks.

PORT ALBERNI—Horses and riders from many Vancouver Island and lower mainland points are expected to be in the Alberni Valley at the weekend to take part in the second annual horse show sponsored by Alberni Valley Riders and Junior Chamber of Commerce. More than 70 horses participated in the initial event last year. The show will open at 10.30 a.m. Sunday in Recreation Park with 12 events, including four jump classes, on the program.

Crowning, Parade Mark Celebration

PARKSVILLE—One of the biggest and best on record was the annual May Queen parade and celebration, held over until June this year.

The parade through the village featured about 15 floats, marching units of the Legion and other groups, three bands from the armed services—Naval Cadets, Canadian Scottish and the Comox RCAF band — a large number of horses and riders from local riding clubs, and many children in costume with decorated bicycles, tricycles, doll buggies and wagons.

QUEEN CROWNED
Highlight of the afternoon program at the Community Park was the crowning of 1962 May Queen Joanne Ferguson by retiring Queen Judy Clark.

Thomas Floyd was master of ceremonies and judges were Mrs. E. G. Touzeau, Mrs. R. C. Towgood and J. E. Kingsley.

Parksville-Qualicum 4-H Club won the top prize for floats entered by organizations, with Qualicum Beach High School second and Parksville and District Garden Club third.

Other prize winners were: Commercial floats, Gordon Baker, Van Isle Electronics, Gerry's Beauty Salon; special prizes, Parksville Riding Centre, French Creek School, Harewood L.A. to fire department; honorable mention, L.A. to Parkville fire department, the fire truck, Kinettes Club, Mt. Arrowsmith 4-H Dairy Club.

Winners for children's costumes were Stephanie Butler, the Ford children and Geoffrey McMillan; decorated doll buggies, Sandra Hayward, Pat Malone, Brenda Harnish; special awards, Jane McKillop and Yvette Botfield, the Moore children.

Decorated bicycles: Pat Malone, Pat Winn, Melanie Butler, Debbie Forest, Cynthia Morley and Paul Leffler.

Case of Disappearing Car Nets Suspended Sentence

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo seaman who pleaded not guilty of car theft and conducted his own defence, was convicted here Wednesday by Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts and given suspended sentence.

Charles Casey, court was told, had been loaned a car last Dec. 10 by Charles F. Stebbins, whose driver's licence had been suspended. Stebbins said it was understood the car was not to be taken off Vancouver Island, and would be returned to him at the end of January.

CASEY MISSING
Casey told Stebbins he was going to work for the department of transport in Victoria, but at the end of January Stebbins could find neither Casey nor the car, and advised police.

The car was located early in May at Vanderhoof, needing repairs and with a storage charge against it. Three youths, arrested late

North Cowichan Meeting

Council Rejects Land for Park

NORTH COWICHAN—Suggested purchase of four and a half acres of land on the shore of Quamichan Lake was rejected by municipal council Wednesday, but councillors agreed to acquire a strip of land to widen Indian Road leading to the lake.

The proposed park site was considered unsuitable, with Coun. Tony Staples saying bigger pieces of land should be bought for parks instead of "pocket pieces," and Coun. Gerry Smith saying this site would be costly to develop.

Coun. Staples told council the blacktopping program in the municipality is one month behind schedule due to cool weather. He added that planned projects may not be finished until fall.

Following advice from Reeve Donald Morton council will apply for foreshore leases at Maple Bay and Crofton beaches from the provincial government for protection against any possible obstruction.

A petition from 11 residents living in the Sunset Road area at Maple Bay asking for some improvement of the narrow road and the dangerous corner at its intersection with Maple Bay Road was referred to the public works committee for further recommendations.

Council is considering taking over the Crofton Community Hall and the adjacent ball park and will lease both back to the Crofton Community Centre Association if the latter agrees to the proposal. Reeve Morton, noting a delegation at the last council meeting had asked for a cut in tax on the hall, said if council acquires the Centre the association will have to pay only a $30 improvement tax instead of $300.

PORT ALBERNI—Two men with a total of half a century of lumber inspection service were honored by the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau at a dinner party last Saturday evening.

Honored guests at the dinner in Greenwood Hotel were Gil Renwick and Frank Ericson. Mr. Renwick retired recently after 30 years with the PLIB, and Mr. Ericson, also retired, had been 20 years with the bureau.

Public Angered By Increase In Gas Prices

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Imperial Oil, the company which raised its price of crude oil in Canada by 10 cents a barrel following the pegging of the dollar, was last night still holding the line on its gasoline prices.

Two of its main rivals, B.A. Oil Company and Texaco Canada Ltd. earlier in the day had increased their tank-wagon prices by 7 cents a gallon, and most of the service stations in the Victoria area were also marking up the retail prices.

An Imperial Oil spokesman yesterday said that his firm was studying the situation carefully and had not yet reached a decision to change its existing rates.

Also holding back to see what happens were Shell Oil Company of Canada and Standard Oil of B.C.

Declined at First

Early in May Imperial Oil announced that to keep the price of crude oil in line with the new value of the Canadian dollar it would increase its wellhead price an average of 10 cents a barrel at most Western Canadian fields.

The company did not suggest that the new price of crude would necessitate an increase in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products, but was merely a matter of keeping the export price of crude in line with existing levels.

Other Canadian refiners and distributors, which do not have such large crude oil production as Imperial, declined at first to pay the 10 cents a barrel extra tariff for crude oil, but were later compelled to do so by producers who declined to sell to them at the lower levels.

When forced into paying the extra wellhead price these companies issued warnings they would also be forced to consider an increase in their product prices.

The business community hailed the move by the oil companies as an attempt to start another bout of inflation.

Government Action?

Imperial Oil, which touched off the present trouble by raising the crude price, came in for most of the criticism, although the action of B.A. Oil and Texaco of Canada in taking the lead on raising retail prices also came in for scathing comment from gasoline users.

One typical comment was: "We are told that every gallon of gas we put into our car is a Canadian product—out of a Canadian well; transported through an all-Canadian pipeline system; processed in Canadian refineries and sold by Canadian distributors."

"I cannot see why the change in value of the Canadian dollar in any way should influence the price of an all-Canadian product sold in the domestic market."

Another comment was: "The government should take action against such flagrant profiteering resulting from a government move aimed to improve the trading position of the country. The oil companies should be allowed to charge what they like for what they export, but they should not be allowed to change their domestic prices."

Another expressed the view that the international oil companies operated a cartel arrangement, and that the only way it could be broken was for the government to control petroleum prices.

He advocated that the B.C. government should reinstitute its control of petroleum product prices abandoned 10 years ago.

Up Three Cents

Winnipeg Pays More for Gas

WINNIPEG (CP)—The price of gasoline sold by British American Oil Company outlets in the Winnipeg area rose three cents a gallon the company announced Wednesday.

The increase follows a similar rise announced Tuesday by North Star division of Shell Oil Company.

The increase brings the price of premium gasoline sold by the two companies to 44.9 cents a gallon from 41.9.

Regular grade gasoline increases in price to 39.9 cents a gallon from 36.9 cents.

Texaco of Canada Limited and Imperial Oil Company Limited spokesmen said their price structure still was under review.

Independent companies in Winnipeg, which sell their gasoline two cents a gallon cheaper, have said they will not increase prices until all other companies have done so.

English School Ban Demanded in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal recommended Wednesday that English-speaking schools be abolished in Quebec and replaced by bilingual schools.

The society said in a brief to the Quebec royal commission on education that English-speaking children should attend schools in which both French and English are used as languages of instruction.

The French - language lay movement presented a brief asking for immediate establishment of a network of such schools.

Edras Minville, chairman of the society's education committee, said bilingual schools should be set up immediately but should be considered a necessary goal for the English-speaking population.

"Do you think this is just?" asked commission member Prof. Rocher of this university of Montreal. "Either in Quebec or elsewhere?"

"Yes," said Mr. Minville, "people living in a given milieu should speak the language of that milieu."

Farmers' Crops Covered

OTTAWA (CP)—The province of Saskatchewan and the federal government have signed an agreement to provide crop insurance to 1,350 farmers, the agriculture department announced Wednesday.

Under the agreement the federal government pays 20 per cent of the individual premiums, the farmer pays an average of 7 1/2 per cent of the coverage provided and the provincial government pays the balance.

The federal - provincial crop insurance scheme was inaugurated last year in Saskatchewan on a trial basis.

Barilko Mystery Solved

TORONTO (CP) — The skeletons of hockey star Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson were found Wednesday in an 11-year-old plane wreckage north of Cochrane, Lands and Forests Minister J. W. Spooner of Ontario said Wednesday night.

PONTOON PLANE
Mr. Spooner said members of his staff had identified the wreckage as the yellow Fairchild 24 pontoon plane which disappeared with the two men aboard on a flight from Rupert's House to Timmins Aug. 26, 1951.

Part of the plane's registration number—CFXT—was still visible.

OLD MYSTERY
The discovery in the Northern Ontario bushland ended one of Canada's longest-standing aviation mysteries.

A helicopter crew of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, who spotted the glint of metal in scrubby wilderness, led searchers to the wreck about 45 air miles north of here.

CONFIRMS IDENTITY
Mr. Spooner said there could be no doubt the remains were those of the former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star and his fishing companion, a Timmins dentist.

Suspicion grew that the mystery was near an end when helicopter pilot Gary Fields first detected the gleaming wreckage last Thursday.

FOUND AGAIN
It was Fields who found the wreck again Wednesday.

He succeeded where all previous efforts failed. The original search, perhaps the most miserable in Canadian history, had cost more than $250,000 and involved 1,345 hours of flying by 17 RCAF aircraft.

The incident prompted the lands and forests department to close 100,000 square miles of hinterland to non-resident fishermen and hunters.

Flag for D-Day

Victorians remembered, last night, when Sergeants Leonard Hamilton, left and Fred Barker lowered the flag at special D-Day sunset ceremony performed by Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on legislative buildings lawn. More than 2,000 persons witnessed colorful ceremony in which Col. the Hon. R. W. Mayhew placed a wreath on cenotaph on behalf of all ranks. — (Colonist photo.)

'Everything Private Enterprise'

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Government-owned corporations should be given back to private control, Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Wednesday.

Speaking at a Social Credit rally here, Mr. Bennett said a Social Credit Government would let the CBC, TCA and the CNR stand on their own financial feet.

The Social Credit premier also said that if his party formed the federal government, it would pay off the country's debt and operate on a balanced budget.

Europeans Favor British Solution To Market 'Key'

PARIS (Reuters) — The seven-nation Western European Union Wednesday adopted a British recommendation for solving Commonwealth problems in European Common Market negotiations.

The union links Britain and the six Common Market countries—France, Italy, West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The recommendation said:

1. "Exceptional provisions" should be worked out to cover a transitional period in favor of imported Commonwealth foodstuffs, especially from the temperate zones (Canada, Australia and New Zealand).

2. After this transitional period there should be product-by-product negotiations of tariff agreements "taking into account the world commodity agreements for foodstuffs which will be sought" by the market.

These points were part of an amendment proposed Tuesday.

Earlier, the assembly recorded its preference for an integrated "democratic union of the peoples of Europe" instead of the inter-government "union of states" favored by France.

40 Killed Since Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — East German border guards have shot and killed at least 40 refugees trying to escape to the west since the Communist Berlin wall went up last August, all-German affairs minister Ernest Lemmer announced Wednesday.

California Jolt

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — A sharp earthquake jolted Ukiah shortly before 11 a.m. Wednesday. There was no report of damage.

Full Medicare 'On the Way'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Malcolm Taylor, principal of the University of Alberta, said Wednesday a complete public health program for Canadians is on the way and dentists will eventually be part of it.

Dr. Taylor told 1,000 delegates to the national convention of the Canadian Dental Association:

MYOTIC VIEWS
"I believe dentists and other professions will rise above the petty irritations, the unwarranted fears, the cries of alarmists and those with myopic views."

"I believe the health professions will see today a great and unprecedented opportunity to provide improved standards of health care."

MORE MONEY
Dr. Taylor said Canadians have come to the conclusion it was time to spend more money and to establish or expand organizational arrangements to make a higher quality of health services more readily available for everybody.

"Will the professions meet this challenge negatively, as if they were fighting a rearguard action to preserve ancient privilege?" he asked.

Nations Agree On Whaling
LONDON (AP) — Five nations Wednesday signed a four-year agreement sharing the permitted whaling catch in the Antarctic Ocean. The accord binds the five—Britain, Japan, Russia, Norway and Holland—to respect the limits of annual catches allowed by the International Whaling Commission and sets forth the percentages of the total catch allotted to each country.

Labor Captures Key British Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — The five candidate Bernard Connelley with 12,825. The Liberal stock with voters took a fresh plunge in a byelection Wednesday when the opposition Labor party captured the parliamentary seat of Middlesbrough West, formerly held by a Conservative.

Labor won the election district with a margin of 2,270 votes in a field of five candidates.

Winning candidate Dr. Jeremy Bray led the field with 15,680 votes followed by Conservatives with 12,825. The Liberal candidate polled 9,829 votes and two independents each less than 200.

The Conservatives won the seat in the 1959 national election with a comfortable margin of more than 8,000 votes.

The verdict underlined the long chapter of government by-election reverses during the last nine months which has coincided with an upsurge of Britain's middle-of-the-road Libera-

Economic Summit

Tighten Belt Red Order

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Top Communist leaders from seven European countries began "economic summit" meeting here Wednesday.

Forecasts from Communist and Western sources said these topics would likely be on the agenda for the meeting of "Comecon," the Soviet bloc's council for economic aid:

1. A Communist counterblast in the Western European Common Market, including a re-statement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call last week for the formation of a worldwide "non-discriminatory" trade organization.

2. The drafting of a "tighten your belt" program for the Communist countries, dictated by a decision to try to keep ahead of the United States in the nuclear and rocket arms race.

3. Further consideration of the already-launched co-ordination of 20-year plans of Communist countries.

Big Oil Area Target Of Rival Bid

CALGARY (CP) — Plans for a $250,000,000 project to produce oil from the Athabasca sands were disclosed Wednesday by a group of companies known as Cities Service Athabasca Inc.

The announcement came as a surprise at a hearing being held by the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board into a bid by Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. of New York for the right to develop what is believed to be one of the largest oil reserves in the world.

The Cities Service group, which includes Imperial Oil Ltd., Richardson Oil Corporation and Roylance Oil Co. Ltd., was expected to be the only rival to Great Canadian's proposal.

No date has been set for that hearing.

Junior Criminals Hit Even Police

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (AP) — A junior crime wave of adult proportions was reported by Woonsocket police to have been solved Wednesday with the arrests of three youths, 13 to 14 years old. They were alleged to have committed 72 thefts and acts of vandalism in which losses totalled thousands of dollars.

As the youths were being led from the police station, after questioning, a policeman noticed a bulge in one of the boy's pockets.

Out came a small transistor radio belonging to one of the sergeants who had questioned the boy.

New Life in Commonwealth—Philip

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh says he believes his second Commonwealth Study Conference which ended here Wednesday has given a great many people a new idea of the meaning of the British Commonwealth.

Prince Philip, president of the conference, told the 300 delegates at the closing session of the 25-day study:

"If this conference has done nothing else, it has brought a new life and a new meaning to the Commonwealth idea to a great many people."

The duke addressed the delegates after three days of intensive study here of matters gathered in three weeks of traveling across Canada. Delegates viewed Canadian communities and industry in an effort to learn of the "human consequences of the changing industrial environment."

This was the theme of the conference which began in Montreal May 13, and Prince

Philip said he believes Canada gave the delegates a broad insight into this subject.

The conference had opportunity to study practically every industrial community problem which Canada had to offer.

"You have seen good and encouraging things as well as bad and depressing things," he said. "Perhaps the most important, you have seen that a high standard of living does not insulate communities from the harsh problems of industrialization, which are experienced in every part of the Commonwealth."

"... But your effect upon each other has been just as rewarding."

"It is quite obvious to me that all of you realize now, probably better than ever before, that you have all got something that you can learn from each other; that you can all help each other and that a great sense of comradeship can

BAD MEAT REJECTED

In two days of operation, the new meat inspection depot in Victoria has discovered and rejected three beef livers, two lamb livers and one pig heart as unfit for human consumption.

Veterinary inspector Dr. D. W. Gaunt said last night the meat was rejected Tuesday and yesterday. The inspection service was initiated after the recent discovery of abcessed liver in a local butcher shop.

No meat was condemned Monday, the first day of the inspection service.

AT CITY SCALES

The inspection depot, at the city scales on Store Street, is open between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. and Dr. Gaunt has started visiting local slaughterhouses for inspections on the spot.

Inspections at the depot mean the freshly-slaughtered meat must be trucked to the city scales.

SAANICH SURVEY

Meanwhile, a survey of Saanich butchers shows little change in business since inspection started in the three other local municipalities.

One meat market reported a slight increase in business while another said sales of liver had dropped considerably.

SAME AS USUAL

The rest said business was the same as usual.

Lake Hill Food Market reported the slight increase but said it probably didn't indicate anything significant.

Liver sales dropped at Wilson's Quality Meats.

GREAT INCREASE

"But other meat sales are still the same," said a spokesman, who reported a great increase in the number of customers asking if meat was inspected.

Sales were "holding up the same" at Ken's Low Cost.

"Business is very good."

NO DIFFERENCE

Other markets noticed no difference.

All but 13 per cent of the meat sold in markets has already been inspected and carries the "Canada Approved" stamp.

A "B.C. Passed" stamp will go onto all carcasses inspected at the Victoria depot.

'Untouchable' President

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India's ruling Congress Party Wednesday elected 41-year-old D. Sanjivaya president of the party—the first member of the "untouchable" caste to receive the honor.

Elsewhere in the city thousands of housewives, fearing price increases following large-scale flooding in Poland and rising meat and butter costs in Russia, lined up from early morning to buy stocks of flour, sugar, macaroni and potatoes at state food stores.

Poland Cold

Rains

At Last

WARSAW (AP) — Hard hit by more than five straight weeks of rain, Poland Wednesday had a mixture of floods, sunshine and cold winds.

Rains finally stopped in most parts of the country, but continued cold temperatures prevented any immediate drying out of perhaps 200,000 acres of cropland under water.

SIX PROVINCES

Newspapers said six of the country's 17 provinces were still under flood warnings.

Temperatures were in the 40s in most of Poland.

Warsaw was warned that the Vistula River would crest this weekend at perhaps 19 1/2 feet, more than two feet above flood level.

Flood Victims Besiege Supermarket

WARSAW (Reuters) — One woman broke a leg and a dog was torn off its steel hinges as 7,000 shoppers besieged Warsaw's first supermarket when it opened Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the city thousands of housewives, fearing price increases following large-scale flooding in Poland and rising meat and butter costs in Russia, lined up from early morning to buy stocks of flour, sugar, macaroni and potatoes at state food stores.

Queen Mother One of Crowd

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth flies to Montreal today to begin a 10-day visit to Canada.

She will be with about 100 other passengers on a scheduled flight of Trans-Canada Air Lines, the first time she has ever travelled on a commercial airliner with other passengers.

The first-class section of the DC-8 airliner will be reserved for the Queen Mother and 10 of her party of 16.

She will be greeted on her arrival at Dorval airport by Governor-General Georges Vanier, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Quebec officials.

Her principal engagements are concerned with the centenary celebrations in Montreal of The Black Watch, the Royal Highland Regiment of Canada of which she is colonel-in-chief.

She is due in Toronto June 16 to attend the Queen's Plate horse race.

It is the Queen Mother's third trip to Canada. The first, as Queen and accompanied by King George VI, was in 1939, the second, as Queen Mother, was in 1954.
